OUR 76TH YEAR, NO. 5 February 1, 1990

Business community split on Fort Ord closure

By DAVID LELAND

A SAMPLING of Carmel merchants shows a diverse range of opinions regarding the possible closing of nearby Fort Ord.

Fort Ord is one of 35 military bases across the country targeted for closure or troop reduction by Secretary of Defense Richard Cheney.

The Pentagon expects to save $5.6 billion over the next 20 years as a result of 86 base closings last year. It is unclear how much money will be saved if the current reductions occur.

While the economic impact the closing could have on Carmel remained unclear, those questioned by The Pine Cone all agreed on one thing: the cities of Seaside, Marina and Monterey would surely suffer economic hardships.

"That's the biggest concern," said Carmel resident and Monterey County Bank chairman/CEO Charles Chrietzberg, Jr., who, as president of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, is heading up a task force to look into the economic aspects of Fort Ord closing. "But everybody will be affected."

Chrietzberg added that the news regarding Fort Ord represents a double whammy for the peninsula, where merchants are still reeling from the Oct. 17 earthquake and its effect on tourism.

"Our biggest concern is that business is not good as it is," he said. "Now we have to address the uncertainty that it may be two years until anything happens (with Fort Ord)."

Chrietzberg was referring to political maneuverings in Congress which could stall any decision on Fort Ord for a number of months or years.

Cheney has indicated that Fort Ord may be spared closing, but could lose the 7th Infantry Division (Light). Those troops would be moved to Fort Lewis, Wash., where live ammunition could be used and an airbase is nearby.

"We're going to fight to keep the 7th here," said Chrietzberg, whose task force will report indirectly to Rep. Leon Panetta, via a committee of peninsula mayors he appointed.

Pehaps the bleakest economic picture for Carmel in the case of Fort Ord closing was painted by Kathie Ritter, Carmel Business Association president.

"Obviously everyone's talking about it," she said. "In the short run it will have negative effects."

Ritter worried that retired military personnel residing in Carmel may relocate if the base is closed and military services, such as medical care, were to be eliminated.

Moreover, she worried of a trickle-down effect on businesses.

'Our biggest concern is that business is not good as it is. Now we have to address the uncertainty that it may be two years until anything happens (with Fort Ord).'

Closure's effects on Carmel area itself is still uncertain

FORT ORD'S potential closure has most of northern Monterey Peninsula worried, but officials in the southern part are still unsure what effect it will have on them.

"In Carmel itself, it will obviously affect daytime visitors to the businesses and shops," Mayor Jean Grace said. "I don't think it will have much of an economic impact directly on our hotels and businesses of Carmel-by-the-Sea. It will have a very large impact on the whole county. We just won't be as personally affected as other areas."

Grace said that peninsula mayors are meeting with U.S. Rep. Leon Panetta to "have a unified front" and coordinate any plans if the fort does close.

"My feeling is that from the federal budget economic standpoint, if it saves money to close the base then we should not fight to keep the 7th Light Infantry here. But there are indications that it might be more costly to move them, then we could fight it on that grounds," Grace said.

If the federal government does close the base, she said, it will happen over a long period of time.

Grace added that the official announcement was made just Monday, and the city has not really had time to develop any projections of economic losses.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Schmitz has been out of town and unavailable for comment.

"Any predictions right now are not very helpful until we know if the 7th Light Infantry is indeed leaving," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman when asked by The Pine Cone what effect closing the base would have on her district. "It is very important that we all work with (Rep.) Leon Panetta so we are not all going off in different directions."

If the 7th Infantry Division (Light) is moved, she said it will "definitely have a devastating economic impact in the short term," but in the long term, it might open the way for new opportunities.

The federal government will have to stay involved for quite a long time, she said, to help with the clean-up of the facility.

The Carmel, Carmel Valley area may want to get involved in land use issues that could arise if or when the federal land becomes available, she said. In the long run, it could also be positive in the environmental area.

"The dunes themselves are a valuable resource," she said.

However, the final decision is out of local governments' hands, she said.

"The decision will be made in Washington. I cannot emphasize enough that we all need to work with Panetta," Strasser Kauffman said.

Economic loss sure to result from closure

THE PENTAGON expects to save $5.6 billion over the next 20 years from base closures announced last year, but the savings from the this new round of closures is still up in the air.

What is clear is that communities around the base will definitely lose money, anywhere from $800 million to $1 billion a year, or 20 percent of Monterey County's economy, according to some local officials.

Here are some facts that are known:

- Fort Ord comprises 28,057 acres and is the home of the 7th Infantry Division (Light), which recently saw heavy action during the invasion of Panama.
- The installation opened in 1933, becoming a fort in 1940.
- It employs more than 15,000 military personnel and 4,500 civilian personnel.
- Its payroll is estimated to be $735 million, almost a fifth of it going to its civilian workforce.
- There are 6,053 housing units currently on base.
- It's estimated that there are more than 53,000 military retirees and dependents who live in the area and depend on base privileges, especially Silas B. Hayes Army Hospital.

ELINOR LAIOLO will give up her city council seat to run for mayor.

JEAN GRACE hopes to win a second two-year term for mayor of Carmel.

Elinor Laiolo to oppose Grace for mayor's seat

COUNCILMEMBER ELINOR Laiolo has announced she will run for mayor in the upcoming election in April, challenging incumbent Mayor Jean Grace for the position.

The two have often been at odds with each other during council meetings.

Laiolo said she plans to file her election papers on Thursday, Feb. 1, the last day for filing. It leaves one of the two council seats up for grabs and extends the council race filing deadline for five more business days. Currently, two candidates have filed for that race: incumbent Bob Fischer and Carmel Residents Association president Barbara Brooks.

As of press time Wednesday, Jan. 31 only Grace had filed papers for the mayor's seat.

Tim Grady had picked up the forms but had not returned them.

Rumors had councilmember Ken White as another possible candidate, but he decided against running.

"I made a commitment for four years and I have two more of those years to go," he said. "I wish to complete my term."

Laiolo said she decided to run for mayor because she has always had a "strong commitment to the city" and "cares very much about what happens here."

"I have four years of experience on the council and two years as mayor pro tem (most during the Eastwood administration)," Laiolo said. "I have represented the city and council at the water board and on the emergency medical service committee. I think (the council) has worked very hard in the last four years to get the R-4 zoning taken care of and the R-1 design elements. I would like to follow them through."

Grace, when asked by The Pine Cone prior to Laiolo's announcement about the election said she does not "look at it as a campaign, I look at it as continuity."

The issues of the campaign, she added, will depend on who ends up filing.

Hard steps

Dear Editor:

It is time to accept the reality of our water situation. A new dam sounds great. But how many years until we have water in the dam? How much of the water will be available for our use and how much will be required to protect the river environment and the steelhead trout? How far can we drain the aquifers without creating serious problems? Water is a precious commodity and will be in short supply for a long time. How long before there is sufficient rain to replenish the aquifer?

The new water management board should be congratulated on being willing to take the hard step and say maybe we should review our status.

It is imperative that we all become more aware of water conservation. We need an education program on the many ways to avoid waste and how water can be saved and collected from the rains we receive. We should enforce conservation across the board.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the management of all major hotels, golf courses and other major users got together to draw up guidelines for a water conservation plan for the region.

We are all in this so it is about time we work together in constructive ways. We the people have spoken by saving more than the 20 percent mandated. That is not enough. Drop politics! Drop the self-interest! Develop and use conservation for all water users. Save and reuse water where practical. Work at alternative solutions. That's what can lead to satisfactory answers for everyone.

Trampling nature

Dear Editor:

About that fence edging Scenic around Stewart's Cove.

A few years ago it was strongly upright, serving its purpose of keeping visitors to the beach from trampling the greenery and eroding the slope.

But something there is, to paraphrase Robert Frost, that doesn't like a fence. Certain regular visitors, one would guess, who would rather stamp down a fence and make their own path than bother with the stairway a few steps distant.

The same visitors, one assumes, who have progressively destroyed the small grove of wind-shaped trees and fed it to their fires. And, having ruined a fairy-circle of trees, leave in its stead each week a fairy-circle of beer bottles around the spot where they sat.

They come to enjoy and stay to destroy. Strange, isn't it?

Killing the goose

Dear Editor:

In your Jan. 18 issue I was stunned to read under CBA News that the incoming president suggested "bringing more business into Carmel by forming an economic development committee providing CBA sponsored bus tours and enticing Japanese tourists."

I speak primarily as a long-time resident and also as a former executive secretary of the Carmel Business Association for a nine-year tenure. Doesn't this new board of directors realize that they are not only widening the breach between the residents and the business community but are killing the goose that laid the golden egg?

For years the CBA did not advertise Carmel's charms and let outsiders discover us themselves, and it worked only too well.

Maybe we should just throw in the sponge now and call ourselves Waikiki East.

My hope is that we can shake up these newcomers who are running and ruining the show and make them fly right.

Moral questions

Dear Editor:

My congratulations to the Carmel City Council for purchasing the Hodges property. I truly believe it was an important purchase for Carmel, for the long run.

In regards to the criticism that too much was paid for the property, one must remember that the voters of Carmel have historically preferred not to have a business person on the council except in one notable exception. Said exception was able to purchase the adjoining property for about half of the Hodges cost, per Nancy Hill's article. There is a price for not having people with capable business experience on the council and this price in this instance may have been $750,000.

I do not think that it is fair to blame the council when the council was not given the tools to do an adequate job. It is much akin to the concept of the child murdering both of his parents and then asking for the courts mercy on the grounds that he is an orphan. If you want good business decisions vote in a competent business person. Think about it.

David Leland pointed out in his article on traffic crunch and tempers of Jan. 11 that the city has been able to garner approximately 5 percent of its annual budget from parking fines. I think what needs to be expressed in regards to this article is that the city is caught in a predicament. If the city can keep a tight rein on the parking the city can make lots of money since the shoppers have no recourse but to park on the streets. The city can even increase this income by making more streets timed zones such as Junipero Avenue. But since for every action there is a reaction, some cars will move into pure residential areas such as Torres Street to park. And the more the city controls the tight parking the less local people will want to come to Carmel for their shopping. Therefore a still greater percentage of the customers will be the tourists who are not aware of our version of the Speed Trap. The Carmel Parking Trap.

The locals who would like to come to shop just don't want the hassle and the people who feel that they have to be in Carmel feel that the parking situation is exasperating. Exasperating enough to make normally reasonable people excessively irate. This circumstance is easily predictable to anyone who has read Coons' study on white mice and the effects of overcrowding.

Another effect of the timed parking is that it increases street traffic as the players do the Carmel Car Shuffle. A parking garage could solve that problem except there will probably be a loss in revenue from parking tickets. This will be partially alleviated by the increased revenue from the increased sales as customers will not be as rushed to pursue their activities.

The people have to decide on whether or not the improved parking, access to stores, local traffic, and a kinder gentler way of life for themselves is worth a loss of revenue. Yes, there is a moral question involved here.

Waxing poetic

Dear Editor:

During a holiday trip last spring, we spent two weeks in Carmel. While there, we visited Tor House and Hawk Tower, and enjoyed the experience very much.

After returning to our hotel, I sat down and penned a free-verse bit, to seal in the memory of that visit. It has occurred to me, coming across it again, that it might find a place in your newspaper.

It is, to my eyes, not too widely advertised; a pity. In several stops in Carmel, this was the first time my wife and I really took note of it.

At any rate, the piece is hereby submitted for use in "The Pine Cone".

The Tor

Today I saw the home a poet built,
A man called Jeffers, of the earth enamored,
Trained in the books, the word, and forestry,
Philosophy and medicine. And then
In all these found he Nature, God, and Stone.
And of these three he built, for family
And Time, 'Tor House'; 'Hawk Tower' from which to see
The end of land, his Carmel Point, the ocean
Whose waters rounded all those stones through ages
That gave to him that strength, that sense of home
Forever, for his life and those to follow.

He looked and dreamed and loved and wrote his dreams.
Having adored but yet eschewed the land
Of Yeats and Hardy, chose the barren headland
And built stone walls, and gardens and a haven
Against the storms, a place of books and warmth.

Of trees he laid a carpet on the moor
Which still today protects against the gales
Long-fetched across Pacific waters dark.
On other days, frames in the final beauty
Of peaceful sea, and rest, and sunset clear.

Unfortunate trend

THE THIRTY-YEAR battle to keep the Big Sur coast pristine culminated, for many, in certification of the Land Use Plan by the Coastal Commission in 1986.

Since then, popular sentiment has held that the laws are in place; and that the Monterey County Board of Supervisors will effectively implement those laws. Those of us who have fought for resource protection on the coast have observed with a cautious optimism as the county has begun to engage coastal policies.

Now, an unfortunate trend is emerging in which development applicants familiar with the most sophisticated legal weapons available to sidestep protective ordinances are effectively compromising those hard-won protections.

Specifically, some applications, perhaps by design, are so complex as to make them unprocessible without sacrificing protections; yet the county must, by law, process them. The result has been that county planning authorities often find themselves mired in what has become a boondoggle game among professional applicants with deregulation as the only clear result. As the county compromises to accommodate applications that push the edges of policies, developers insist (with threats of lawsuits) that the point of compromise must become the new standard for the coast.

If the county continues this course of regulation without gaining special help, the result will be an irrevocably degraded National Treasure.

Several remedies, however, are available to them.

- The California Coastal commission has a legal staff that includes some of the best land use attorneys in the state. They stand ready to advise coastal planning departments; yet Monterey County has virtually ignored this free resource. It's time they begin to collaborate with these professional peers to fulfill the responsibilities of coastal protection.

- The Board of Supervisors must sensitize themselves to the occasions when coastal resources are threatened by developers whose expertise surpasses the county's best human resources. On those specific occasions it's entirely appropriate to approve the hiring of private independent counsel to advise the county as to how best to proceed. Ultimately, it's cheaper to get good advice on strategy and tactics than it is to be hauled into court as a result of tactical mistakes.

- Perhaps the most efficient way for county officials and employees to get a tighter grasp on the subtler elements of land use practices is to sponsor in-house land use workshop/symposiums employing top experts. Other coastal counties may want to participate and share expenses.

Ultimately, we are all responsible for insuring preservation of this precious coast for future generations to enjoy. Perhaps our own highly capable Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffmann may wish to take the lead and carry the forgoing suggestions to the board. Future generations will thank her.

Carmel about to lose free ambulance service

By NANCY HILLS

A 53-YEAR-OLD tradition of no-fee emergency ambulance service appears to be coming to an end as the Carmel City Council, emergency service agencies and the Red Cross make preparations to add paramedic service to the Carmel region.

The preparations are aimed at completing a proposal to get Measure A funds in this region to supplement the cost of paramedics in the Carmel/Carmel Valley/Big Sur area.

The Carmel City Council unanimously agreed last week to support a draft plan that would create a "joint powers authority" consisting of the emergency response agencies in the region. The JPA, as a single legal entity, would consolidate and coordinate emergency ambulance and paramedic service in the Carmel/Carmel Valley/Big Sur area.

'It was a situation where all possible avenues had been researched. If there was a way we could continue to provide the service for free, we would have.'

— Lynette Balestreri
— Carmel Red Cross

The JPA would request the Measure A funds needed to subsidize the program.

Carmel Fire Chief Bill Hill told the council the agencies had tried almost every approach to retain no-fee service but, "we feel very strongly we are not going to be able to provide (advanced life support) without a fee."

Most of the council expressed their reluctance to do anything that ended the no-fee service, but said that it was more important to have paramedics on board.

Additonally, the board of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross voted last Thursday to donate to the JPA, if legally feasible, the three ambulances it owns and that are now providing no-fee service.

Currently, the Carmel Red Cross chapter, through its own fund-raising efforts, supplies the ambulances free to Carmel Fire Department, Carmel Valley Fire Department and Big Sur volunteers. Mid-Valley owns its vehicle. The ambulances are primarily staffed by volunteer EMTs, which have significiantly less training than paramedics.

"It was a situation where all possible avenues had been researched. If there was a way we could continue to provide the service for free, we would have," said Lynette Balestreri, Carmel Red Cross Chapter manager. "We have always said 'yes, you need paramedic service in this region.' "

The Red Cross will donate the ambulances, she said, because people in the area gave the money to buy the vehicles. Technically, they are owned by the national organization.

AS THE JPA plan is now written, and if it receives Measure A funds, it would establish 24-hour paramedic and emergency medical technician positions with ambulances in Carmel-by-the-Sea and Big Sur.

Carmel Valley and Mid-Valley fire departments would share a mobile 24-hour paramedic and EMT position, but each department would house and dispatch their own ambulance.

Carmel Highlands would be served by Carmel.

The maximum charge for ambulance service now is $263, but that ceiling may be raised to $360 soon. Insurance covers about 80 percent of the charge.

The JPA was developed after numerous meetings between representatives of the regional emergency medical agencies to develop a plan that would provide paramedic service to all the areas of concern and qualify for Measure A funds. It requested $204,838 of Measure A monies.

In November 1988, voters overwhelmingly approved an advisory ballot measure which asked if residents would be willing to pay an annual assement of no more than $12 per living unit to fund a paramedic program.

Half of the approximately $1 million raised by the assessment is dedicated to centralized training, equipment, communication and administration.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors will divide the rest of the money among the four emergency service regions in the county. The supervisors will receive the recommendations from an executive council.

Of the four service regions, only the Carmel/Carmel Valley/Big Sur region does not have a fee for emergency ambulance service and response. The two north county regions are serviced by a private operator.

Only the Carmel region and South County region — the sprawling agricultural area around King City — are seeking Measure A funds. South County requires a substantial subsidy in addition to an ambulance fee to provide service to its area.

This region also needs Measure A funds to provide paramedic service, which incorporates large rural sections with a low volume of calls.

But the other three regions have protested that the Carmel/Carmel Valley/Big Sur region should not get county money as long as the ambulance service is without a fee.

Additionally, there may not be enough Measure A money for both South County and this region without an ambulance charge to offset the costs of the program.

At the council meeting Jan. 23, Ed Haber, who chaired the Measure A committee, explained to the council that insurance covers 80 percent of the charge, and people without insurance simply do not end up paying for the service.

"It has been said that paramedics are not cost-effective, but it is if it is you in need of one," he said.

"I would really encourage you to vote for this. I realize you have ties to the Red Cross, but the longer you delay, the longer this area is without paramedic service," said Kim Donnelly of the county emergency medical services agency.

Carmel resident Barbara Brooks questioned whether the fee may keep some people from calling 911.

"In this town, there are a lot of elderly and not of high means. They may hesitate to call," she said.

But the assessment is beginning to show up on property tax forms, Hill said, and people are beginning to call asking "Where is my paramedic service?"

Mayor Jean Grace had immediately supported the plan.

"My life was saved by a paramedic. I voted for Measure A. I suggest we support this," she said. She also asked if her bias in favor required her to step down. City Attorney Don Freeman assured her it was not necessary.

Councilmember Bob Fischer, a retired police officer, said, "I don't want to wait until the Red Cross board makes its decision. I, too, have held a dying child in my arms. I feel very strongly about this. Let us make a decision and put it behind us," said Fischer, a former police officer.

'My life was saved by a paramedic. I voted for Measure A. I suggest we support this.'

— Jean Grace

"I didn't think we were talking about paramedics, but about the JPA. I, too, think they should be in the ambulance. I think we're in a box and I think we have to go in this direction," councilman Ken White said.

'In this town, there are a lot of elderly and not of high means. They may hesitate to call (911).'

— Barbara Brooks

Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo, who often warned that Measure A would mean the end of the no-fee ambulance service, agreed with White.

After the unanimous vote, city staff explained that the regional committee was to have met Jan. 31 (past Pine Cone press time) and was expected to finalize the agreement. The proposal will then go to the county executive committee, which will recommend funding distribution to the board of supervisors.

Carmel man files suit against Simic gallery over Valere works

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL RESIDENT and Monterey County Bank CEO Charles Chrietzberg, Jr. has filed a lawsuit against Simic Galleries, Inc., thus continuing the saga of French artist Paul Valere.

Filed in Monterey County Superior Court last week, the suit alleges Mario Simic, owner of the gallery, committed fraud, misrepresentation and breach of contract against Chrietzberg concerning two Paul Valere paintings he purchased for $9,600 in October 1984.

The claim asks for general damages of $9,600, punitive damages to be determined by the judge, and court costs.

The claim further alleges that the two oil paintings, "Chateau de Germignot" and Chateau d'Amanvillier," were represented to have been painted by an artist of "considerable" note.

Indeed, a now-amended biography of Valere said the artist graduated from a prestigious Parisian art school and had received a number of awards for his works. That information was later proved incorrect — Valere was a self-taught craftsman.

Simic Galleries, meanwhile, has filed a lawsuit against Valere's former agent, Robert Fruchter, who, gallery officials claim, provided the fraudulant information contained in the previous biographies.

When Simic Galleries found out about the misinformation, it changed the biography and stopped payment on more than $200,000 owed to Fruchter.

Chrietzberg's suit claims that he was led to believe that "Valere's works were unique and original works of art and were of investment grade quality which would rapidly appreciate over their listed retail prices."

Quite the opposite proves to be true, according to Chrietzberg.

"The two paintings are only worth a small fraction of their original purchase price," said Chrietzberg in his complaint. "The paintings...were reproduced with only the most insignificant variations between them and other paintings. No resale market at comparable or greater prices exists."

CARMEL RESIDENT Charles Chrietzberg, Jr. has filed a lawsuit against Simic Galleries, Inc., claiming that the gallery misrepresented paintings by French artist Paul Valere.

CHRIETZBERG'S CLAIM comes on the heels of litigation filed by the Monterey County District Attorney's Office in November, alleging that Simic intentionally misled the public regarding paintings created by Valere.

Valere, whose real name is Oscar Bouville, also paints under the pseudoym Jean Ribout. His paintings are still being displayed at Simic Galleries.

Valere's works, which principally show landscapes of the French countryside, have been under investigation since the FBI received tips of fraud during an unrelated investigation in March 1988.

Chrietzberg "was induced to purchase the paintings for the total sum of $9,600, which paintings may, at the most, actually be worth in the aggregate, $500," the suit alleges.

In addition to maintaining a gallery at Sixth Avenue and San Carlos Street in Carmel, Simic Galleries has locations in La Jolla and Beverly Hills.

Since finding out that the paintings had been misrepresented, Simic Galleries has notified those who purchased paintings by Valere and Ribout.

The gallery has sold about 500 paintings under the two names, according to Ed King, vice president of Simic Galleries.

To those patrons the gallery sent an amended biography and an offer of a full refund for the year beginning Oct. 17, 1989.

"To return your Valere painting, you need only deliver to us the original invoice, this letter and the painting, undamaged and in its original condition," said Simic in his letter.

Chrietzberg said that he decided to file suit because repeated telephone calls to the gallery went unreturned and that the gallery wanted to keep the painting for up to two months before any money was refunded.

"I told them I didn't fall off the turnip truck yesterday — give me my money," said Chrietzberg in a telephone interview Tuesday, adding that he was surprised that the gallery would rather go to court than refund his money. "I'm not going to leave them my painting — then I've got nothing."

Chrietzberg added that he worried that Simic Galleries may be experiencing "financial problems," which could mean he would not be paid back at all.

Simic Galleries representatives did not return telephone calls to The Carmel Pine Cone.

CV Road traffic within limits

TRAFFIC FLOWING on Carmel Valley Road is within the dictates of the Carmel Valley Master Plan, according to a report by the county Public Works Department.

Presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors this week, the report indicates that the stretch between Los Laureles and Ford roads is not as congested as was previously feared in December.

"Our Dec. 12 report listed incorrect threshold volumes for segments one, six and seven," according to the report.

What that means, the report continued, is that there is additional capacity on the road.

Under the guidelines of the master plan, traffic service may not fall below certain levels. If that happens building in the valley can be shut down.

In order to obtain accurate traffic data, the public works department recommends that four permanent counting stations be established along Carmel Valley Road, with counting being completed on a daily basis year-round.

"These daily counts could be used to calibrate the twice annual counts taken on the 12 road segments," the report suggests, referring to the mandate of the master plan.

Equipment for such an undertaking could cost about $40,000, with an annual cost of operations running about $10,000, according to the report.

The best possible solution to traffic woes on Carmel Valley Road, however, would be making road improvements in a "timely fashion," according to the report.

Carmel man makes debut in 'square ring' Feb. 9

By DAVID LELAND

CERTAIN IMAGES come to mind when Carmel is mentioned: a Bohemian artists' colony loaded with art galleries, quaint boutiques, and an older, affluent population. But boxing?

That's right, if lifelong Carmel resident Steve Reed, 24, has his way, pugilists may someday stand up and salute when the name "Carmel" is mentioned.

Sure, Reed, a 160-pound middleweight, is only beginning his professional boxing career, but he definitely has a winning attitude.

"I'd like to take it as far as I can," says Reed, a part-time bartender at Jimmy's American Place. "I have a lot of ability and there's a lot of people who believe in me. I'd like to give it all I've got and see how far I can go."

'I have a lot of ability and there's a lot of people who believe in me. I'd like to give it all I've got and see how far I can go.'

— Steve Reed

Reed will fight a four-round bout with Fabian Mollina, who is also making his professional debut, Friday night, Feb. 9, during the "Riot at the Hyatt" boxing card.

The title bout features Georgie Garcia and Alan Makitoki in the super bantam weight division. Former world champion Alexis Arguello will be special guest at ringside.

Don't for a minute, however, think that Reed is a stranger to contact sports. Ten years ago he began to practice the ancient art of karate, receiving a black belt — the sport's highest rating — at the age of 17.

He took up the super-physical sport of kickboxing in 1985, but switched over to boxing a a year ago.

"Very few people make it in kickboxing," says Reed, a 1983 Carmel High School graduate.

It was while training at Tex West Boxing Club in Prunedale that his trainers, John Strickland and Steve Dickson, recommended he turn pro.

Support has also come financially from Jeff Couch, owner of Watsonville-based beer distribing firm Couch Distributing Co., Inc.

After applying for and being granted a license, there was no turning back for the self-proclaimed "gym fighter."

In addition to bartending, Reed also teaches martial arts at Monterey Bay Karate.

Reed says he has to work his way to the top, one bout at a time. There's no reason, he adds, that he cannot bring a title home to Carmel.

"You've got to develop an impressive record and work your way up to 12-round fights," he says. "You've got to earn a shot at it (title). You've got to fight and you've got to win."

LIFELONG CARMEL resident Steve Reed will fight his first professional boxing bout this Friday at the "Riot at the Hyatt" event.

News notes:

Carmel council meets Feb. 6

THE CARMEL City Council will have its regular meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 6 with what appears at press time to be a light agenda.

According to the draft agenda, the council will:

• Consider an appeal by Robert and Charlene Fruchter of a planning commisson decision that the sale of contemporary retail art is not a part of the use permit for their art gallery. The commission stated that the permit is for antique art.

• Receive the status report from the Ad Hoc Parking committee on the development of a long-term management parking plan.

• Consider policy guidance for city applications during the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's water permit limitation.

Final papers on Hodges property have been signed

THE CITY of Carmel officially signed the final papers for the $1.75 million purchase of the Hodges property last Monday, putting the 6 acre-plus property behind the Carmel Mission in city hands.

"I am thrilled," said Mayor Jean Grace who signed the papers in San Francisco. "Now, the next step is getting a committee together of involved residents near the property and discuss the uses there."

Grace said that the city first needs to clear off some of the old shacks on the property.

Forum on hiring of cultural director set for Feb. 16

THE FRIENDS of Sunset Foundation is sponsoring a public forum on the hiring of a replacement for recently retired community and cultural director Richard Tyler.

The forum is scheduled for 5 to 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16 in Carpenter Hall at Sunset Center.

The two hours will include a presentation by city administrator Doug Schmitz on the process, cultural programing suggestions, and questions and comments from the audience.

"We believe that filling the director's position is a vital first step twoards setting new priorities, moving Carmel-by-the-Sea's cultural activities in a new direction and enriching the cultural climate of the city," the Friends of Sunset Foundation announcement said.

Two youths arrested in vandalism case

TWO CARMEL men were arrested in the city Tuesday night for spray painting numerous buildings and signs in downtown Carmel with swastikas, "666" and anti-Semitic and racial epithets.

Darren Read, 20, and Justin Marshall, 18, were both caught spray painting walls and defacing multiple signs at about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 30, according to Carmel Detective Pete Poitras.

They were arrested by the Carmel police officers and charged with vandalism and the possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor.

All the vandalized buildings were on south of Ocean Avenue, and ranged from around Ron's Liquors on San Carlos Street to the Adobe Inn on Dolores Street.

Tree pruning set to begin

THE CITY of Carmel-by-the-Sea has contracted with Arbor Tree Surgery to prune all dead branches from trees in the northeast section of town.

This is the second year the city has undertaken such a project. Plans are to continue this program annually to improve the health and ensure the safety of the city's forest.

Pruning is scheduled to begin on Monday, Feb. 5, on Santa Fe Street. This year's program will include an area bounded by Santa Fe Street, Junipero, Ocean Avenue and the northern city limits and will take approximately one month to complete. The city asks residents to please understand that the noise of the chainsaws and equipment will be temporary while the crew is working in the vicinity.

Questions and comments should be directed to the city forester, Gary Kelly, at 624-3543.

Public forum on Highway 1 set for Feb. 1

THE CITY of Carmel will sponsor a public forum on "A Solution To The Highway 1 Traffic Congestion." The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 1 in Sunset Auditorium.

A similar forum in November focused on the "Loop Route" solution. This forum will focus on widening Highway 1 to four lanes south of Ocean Avenue with an interchange at Carmel Valley Road. This plan is one of six alternatives considered by Caltrans.

Caltrans and members of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club will each make a 30-minute presentation to be followed by a question-and-answer period.

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Teri Livingston, who has been a member of the 2-year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 648 Pine Ave. in Pacific Grove. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

Park district board to discuss Cooper Ranch

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Regional Park District Board of Directors will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 5 at the Carmel Valley Community Center, 25 Ford Road, Carmel Valley.

Agenda items will include proposed land uses at the recently acquired Cooper Ranch adjacent to Garland Park. Use of open space and buildings, as well as a proposal to open trails to mountain bikes, will be discussed.

The meeting is open to the public. For more information call 659-4488.

Big Sur trust nominated for statewide award

THE BIG Sur Land Trust has been nominated for a statewide award of merit for its work in acquiring, preserving and protecting land in Monterey County.

The Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District nominated the land trust for the California Parks and Recreation Society's Award of Merit. District manager Gary Tate cited several reasons for the district's choice:

- The $1.3 million purchase and sale of an 1,100-acre Big Sur redwood parcel in 1989.
- The $350,000 purchase of 15 acres in Carmel Valley from owner Merv Griffin.
- The $2.5 million purchase and sale of a 5-acre Cannery Row parcel to the park district and city of Monterey in 1988.
- The purchase and sale of 38 beachfront lots in Sand City to the park district in 1989.
- The purchase and pending sale of 1.8 acres in Marina Dunes to the park district using Measure B funds.
- Coordination with the park district to identify specific properties and habitats for acquisition using Prop 70 and pending California Wildlife Initiative funds.

The collaboration between the land trust and the park district has enabled these critical areas to be protected as well as to help the park district expand its acquisition program and better facilitate the recreational needs of the Monterey Peninsula community, said Tate.

The result of the collaboration has been the acquisition of 1,116 acres with an appraised value of $6 million. This acreage was then sold to the park district at $4.5 million, resulting in a net savings of $1.5 million to the park district.

Rep. Leon Panetta seeks interns

REP. LEON E. Panetta (D-Monterey) is accepting applications from college students who wish to serve as interns in his Washington, D.C. office during the spring of 1990.

He said that applicants for the unpaid internships should be prepared to work in his office from April through June, although he noted that adjustments could be made for individual interns.

Students interested in an internship should call Panetta's local office or send a postcard requesting an application to Rep. Leon E. Panetta, 339 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

The deadline for receipt of applications is Feb. 20. Panetta urged interested students to request an application as soon as possible. He also said he would accept applications for the spring and summer of 1990.

Panetta said that interns would do research, writing, and office support work. He also said they would be responsible for their own housing, transportation, and other expenses in Washington.

Businesses divided on effects

REAL ESTATE in Carmel, regardless of what happens at Fort Ord, would continue to be hot, according to those interviewed.

"The market (in Carmel) will continue to be strong," said Barry Throgmorton, owner of Peninsula Realty. "The majority of our buyers are retirees from the San Francisco Bay Area or other areas of the West Coast."

Throgmorton added that the same is not true for the cities closer to the base.

"I think you'd have a hard time selling an apartment house in Marina, without full disclosure," he said. "Until the fight is over...real estate (in Seaside and Marina) will be somewhat in limbo."

Carmel Business Sales, Inc. owner Don Bowen took the view that there are, perhaps, better options for Fort Ord than serving as an arm of the Defense Department.

"There are other uses for it. I think the whole community could benefit from the far-reaching effects (of closing) over the long term," he said, adding that the locale is perfect for a major university. "That would be a tremendous asset to the community."

Bowen believes that no matter what occurs at Fort Ord, Carmel does not thrive on military personnel.

"When you think about it, what kind of military activity do you see here?" he asked.

David Wolf, Cypress Inn manager, told The Pine Cone that, one way or another, Carmel would feel the impacts of the closing of Fort Ord because of the "complex economic fabric" of the peninsula.

"Carmel is a resort destination; we're not a convention destination like Monterey," he said, adding that the Carmel Innkeepers Association has plans to take up the issue during its coming meetings.

Chrietzberg said that, even if the current attempt to amend activities at the base fails, strategy should be in place.

'There are other uses for it. I think the whole community could benefit from the far-reaching effects (of closing) over the long term.'

— Don Bowen

"Even if we win the battle this time, it (closing) will happen sooner or later," he said.

He cited cities in Michigan and Texas that had experienced the loss of military bases and had their economy take off five to seven years later.

"Business is booming (there)," he said.

News notes:

Few changes in state tax forms

IT'S THAT time of year when over 13 and a half million Californians are beginning to prepare their income taxes for 1989.

Most California taxpayers will notice little change in their tax forms this year. However, there are a few significant changes in the law, according to the Franchise Tax Board (FTB). FTB also points out that half of all taxpayers are still eligible to file the state's short form (540A).

What are the significant changes that will affect your 1989 state income taxes?

- Most taxpayers who have a home equity line of credit or a home equity mortgage may now claim the same amount of interest as a tax deduction on their California tax return as they do on their federal return.
- Larger tax credits are available for employers contributing to day-care facilities and dependent care for their employees.
- New ridesharing tax credits and recycling equipment tax credits are also available.

In addition to these changes, FTB appointed a Taxpayers' Rights Advocate last year who reports directly to the executive officer. The advocate resolves taxpayers' complaints, and recommends ways to improve FTB procedures. To be eligible for the advocate program, taxpayers must have a problem (versus an information or routine request), that cannot be resolved through normal FTB channels.

Taxpayers wanting to reach the advocate should call the FTB toll-free number for their area, visit a local FTB district office, or write to Franchise Tax Board, P.O. Box 942840, Sacramento, CA 94240-0040.

The advocate is also responsible for communicating to taxpayers the most common mistakes they make when preparing their returns.

Last year more than 10 percent of all tax returns filed — or 1.4 million returns — had some type of taxpayer mistake.

A few of the more common errors included more than 350,000 taxpayers who did not take the special limited income tax credit when they were entitled to it. The credit is provided to reduce the tax for individuals with income of less than $10,460 if they are single, or $20,900 if married.

Other common errors taxpayers make are basic math computation mistakes, use of the wrong tax table, and failure to claim the standard deduction.

FTB also reminds taxpayers to be more careful when transferring withholding amounts from their W-2 forms onto their state income tax return. In this area, more than 80,000 taxpayers used the wrong figure when filing last year's tax return.

Drunk driving arrests are up

DRUNK DRIVING arrests by the California Highway Patrol were up more than 4 percent during the first 15 days of 1990, and the new .08 drunk-driving law appears to be a significant reason for the increase.

"From Jan. 1 through Jan. 15 of this year our officers arrested 5,407 persons for driving under the influence of alcohol," CHP Commissioner Maury Hannigan said recently. "Of those arrested, 462 — 8.5 percent — had a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) level of .08 or .09 percent. And that's only considering those who took a breath test. Blood and urine tests require more time to get results, so the percentage of drivers at .08 could go higher."

In 1989 the CHP made 5,197 DUI arrests during the same 15-day period or 210 fewer than in 1990.

"In 1989 the presumptive BAC cutoff for driving under the influence was .10 percent," Hannigan explained. "That didn't mean a person with a BAC of .08 or .09 percent could not be arrested for DUI. Any driver showing signs of alcohol or drug impairment can be charged with driving under the influence — and successfully prosecuted — even when his or her BAC level is below the minimum presumptive level specified in the Vehicle Code.

"But the fact that more than 400 of the people arrested for DUI during the first 15 days of 1990 had BAC levels below the old legal limit tells me that this new law will be a valuable weapon in the war against the impaired driver.

"Motorists in this state have the right to expect they can take to the highways without having somebody under the influence roar through a stop sign or across the yellow line and snuff out their lives or the lives of their loved ones.

"Our expectation has been that this law will help us make that right much more of a reality."

This year California became the fourth state (along with Oregon, Utah and Maine), to lower the presumptive BAC legal limit — the level at which a person is presumed to be too impaired to drive a motor vehicle safely on public roads — to .08 percent. The change makes it illegal for anyone with a BAC of .08 percent or higher to be driving.

Drunk-driving convictions in California now cost at least $2,500 in fines, increased insurance rates, attorney fees, towing, storage and rehabilitation costs, etc.

Supervisor seeks applicants for EMS Committee

MONTEREY COUNTY Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is inviting applications from interested constituents for a three-year appointment to the Emergency Medical Services Committee.

The purpose of the Emergency Medical Care Committee is to review and recommend on the ambulance service operating within the county; emergency medical care offered within the county; first aid protection in the county.

The committee meets the second Wednesday of each month, with the exception of July and August, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Interested residents of the 5th District (including the Aguajito, Skyline Forest, parts of Monterey and Pebble Beach, Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur and the Highway 68 corridor) should send a letter stating their desire to serve, including their home address and daytime telephone number, to the office of Strasser Kauffman, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 006, Monterey, CA 93940.

Congressional delegation favors protection from oil drilling

A BIPARTISAN majority of the California Congressional delegation, led by Rep. Leon E. Panetta (D-Monterey), called on president Bush Jan. 18 to go beyond the recommendations reportedly made to him by his offshore oil task force and support permanent protection from offshore oil and gas drilling for sensitive areas of the California coast.

In a letter to Bush, the 26 representatives as well as Sen. Alan Cranston and Pete Wilson also called for equal treatment for all areas of the coastline, including central California, which was not included in the task force's work.

"We urge you to go beyond the minimum level of protection for California reportedly included in the Task Force's options...and provide permanent protection for all sensitive areas along the coast," they said. "In addition, we urge you to provide a level of protection for central California commensurate with that provided for northern and southern California."

Permanent protection, they said, "is necessary to put this controversial issue to rest," and added, "we believe that sensitive coastal areas are entitled to the same level of protection accorded to critical onshore areas through wilderness designations and other means. Our views on this issue were supported by a majority of those who testified at the Task Force hearings in California and are clearly shared by millions of Americans."

The leasing area for central California covers the coast from Sonoma County south to Monterey County. The Californians noted that concerns presented to the task force by the National Academy of Sciences regarding a lack of information to support drilling in northern and southern California "most certainly apply to central California as well."

The task force, which consists of the heads of the Interior Department and other agencies involved in the offshore oil issue, was established by Bush a year ago to present him with policy options on offshore oil and gas development and coastal protection in proposed lease sales along the northern and southern California coast and in Florida.

At the same time, he delayed Lease Sales 91 in northern California and 95 in southern California. However, he did not delay Lease Sale 119 in central California, which is scheduled for March 1991, and has refused requests from Panetta and other Californians to include that lease sale in the task force's agenda.

In October 1989, Congress enacted legislation authored by Panetta which forbids the administration from going ahead with any oil and gas leasing along the California coast until at least October 1990, and which also prohibits critical pre-leasing steps, including those associated with Lease Sale 119, until at least five months after the task force report is released to the public.

The task force submitted its report to the president earlier this month. While it has not been made public, news reports indicate that the task force suggested several policy options but did not include permanent protection for sensitive coastal areas among those options.

Earlier, the National Academy of Sciences, which performed most of the technical scientific work for the task force, reported that there was insufficient information on the impact of oil drilling in these areas to go ahead with leasing at this time.

"The purpose of this letter," Panetta said, "is to encourage the president to end once and for all the stop-and-go drilling policies and the blanket auction of our coastline that represented the approach of the past Administration."

Blood drive set for Feb. 8

THE AMERICAN Red Cross/-Community Hospital will hold a blood drive from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 8 in the Community Room of The Crossroads shopping center, Rio Road and Highway 1 in Carmel.

The Community Hospital is dire need of new blood supplies and holds regular blood drives to help fill the demand. All blood donated is designated for use only in this area.

A complimentary lunch will be served to all donors. For more information call 625-4811.

Supervisor seeks applicants for water committee

MONTEREY COUNTY Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking qualified applicants for appointment to the Urban Water Conservation Steering Committee.

This committee is an advisory body to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

The function of the committee is shaping the development and progress of the annual water conservation program; budget recommendations for the water conservation program; and special projects as may be requested by the water management district board members. There are approximately four to eight meetings of the committee each calendar year.

Interested residents of the Monterey Peninsula are requested to send a letter to Strasser Kauffman's office at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940, stating their desire to serve, including their home address and daytime telephone number.

Seniors program needs participants

CARMEL POLICE Department's "Seniors Helping Seniors" program has need for two types of seniors: those who would like to help and those who desire help.

According to Cathy Dampier, desk officer, there are seniors who are looking for some type of community involvement to donate their time and others who are lonely, "shut-ins," or are "at-risk" due to medical or physical reasons and desire contact with someone who cares about their welfare.

Under the program, senior volunteers call participants of the program by telephone from the Carmel Police Department. If for some reason the recipient doesn't answer the phone, the volunteer alerts the police dispatcher and a patrol unit is sent to check on the participant's welfare. To be effective, calls are made at about the same time every day, Dampier said, but the seniors aren't restricted to their homes. If they plan to be gone, they merely notify the police department in advance.

In addition to the daily phone calls, home visitations, tea parties, and luncheons are also scheduled to "further enhance and improve the quality of our contacts" with those who are shut-ins or at-risk, Dampier said.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or a recipient of the "Seniors Helping Seniors" program is encouraged to call the Carmel Police Department at 624-6403.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

MORE THAN 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $15 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

For more information call the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Art in the air

ART IS always in the air in the area and last week the air was as saturated as a Monet painting during his later years.

First the Carmel Valley Ranch Resort poured champagne in honor of "The Art of Miguel Dominguez" placed in the Resort Gallery. And Carmel's Inspiration Point inspired an "Informant Dance Happening." Friday evening was devoted to "gallery-hopping" in Monterey and Pacific Grove. And, Saturday night the country bard Robert Burns was in town.

Grace Meredith, featured at Gallery 7 was honored for her "Colors, CA" show in Pacific Grove. At the same time, a couple of blocks away at the PG Art Center, Jean Wilsdon Brenner's "California Coast Kenya Skies" exhibit opened along with Edmund Moody's latest paintings. Each artist so different. Each artist so impressive. The large oils of Mr. Moody, a native of Birmingham, Ala., are better seen and interpreted by you.

Mrs. Brenner has added more intricate pieces to the whole in some instances using new media such as watercolor paper, plexiglass (for rivers), etc. Her Central Coast construction paintings are absolutely stunning. They are sprinkled with inspirations gained from her travels to exotic destinations. This time, East Africa. And those East African skies are something one never forgets. If you have been there, as we have, you know what I mean.

Meanwhile, art excitement reigned at the MP Museum of Art at the reception for four exhibits. Morley Baer's "Forty Years of Photographs" fill the Work Gallery, offering his artistic reaction to the local coastline he loves so much.

The Hall Gallery holds more photographs. Horace Bristol's "Grapes of Wrath" portfolio that he did in Salinas Valley during the devastating depression.

On view in the Church Gallery (until early April), is a delightful "Progressive Metal" show by nine artists that was put together by art director Marc D'Estout. "Exploration of the Figure" by Lorser Fietelson (1919-1929) are displayed in the Oriental Galleries.

Photographer Cole Weston remembers Mr. Bristol and the time he came out to make photos of the period written about by John Steinbeck. MPMA director Jo Farb Hernandez said that Mr. Bristol called from his home in the Midwest saying he was sorry that he was not well enough to attend the reception.

However, Richard Andolsen. founder and president of the Arthurian Society, who furnished the photographs for the museum showing, did attend. The Bristol portfolio came directly from an exhibition at Stanford University. Mr. Andolsen owns the home in Pacific Grove where Mr. Steinbeck did much of his writing and he has turned it into a museum in Steinbeck's honor.

Art in a different form was brought to the Carmel home of Carolyn Tyson on "Inspiration Point." It is there that Mrs. Tyson has been inspired to paint prize-winning paintings and to make prize-winning films. She received the Gold Eagle Award for her films on Robinson Jeffers and Robert Frost. In her mid 80s, she is planning yet another film.

Mrs. Tyson opened her home last week for an "artistic informant happening." She savored every moment of the unusual evening as she sat by a crackling fire.

Arts advocate Sue Dewar introduced the guest of honor Tandy Beal, who formed the Tandy Beal Dance Company some 15 years ago in Santa Cruz. We soon learned that it would take far more than limited space to stifle the creative effervescence of Ms. Beal.

"I am a dancer, teacher, businesss woman. I have lots of persona inside me," she began. "Each of us has inner poetry going within us all the time," she added (sounding a bell in our heads), "Everything begins with imagination."

She invited guests to help her create an impromptu dance. Several people suggested "slow-and-'round" which she did, Adding "fast-and-angular" for a finale at the end. Then she asked, "Does anyone have any questions? Or better yet, any answers." (She possesses a stimulating mind.)

Responses came from such cultural pillars as Lydia Criley, Pat Work, Joyce Wright, Mary Kay and Don Higgins, Christine Armanasco, Mae Waldroup, Becky Flavin, Hal and Carolyn Kren, Ashley Ramsden and Richard Tyler (you can take Richard out of a cultural post but you can't take the culture out of Richard). The Santa Cruz contingent was headed by Barbara Zollinger and Sheila Baumgarten.

Nibbling food and wines were arranged by hostesses Abby Tyson (Mrs. Tyson's grandniece from New York), Kristan Ramsden, Perla Armanasco Gray (of Manhattan, N.Y. and daughter of the late great Carmel cultural leader Genevieve Armanasco), Perla's daughter and Joy Powers. David Walton (proprietor of Beau Thai Restaurant), brought Thai hors d'oeuvres and Jam Long to tend the bar before he headed back to his biz.

The all-too-brief evening was a moving and rewarding cultural experience. If you wish to see the talents of Tandy and her dance company they will perform a "Keyboards, Reeds and Dances" concert with classically trained jazz musicians at Santa Catalina Performing Arts Center at 8 p.m. Feb. 2 and 3 — $10 tickets at CenterStage Ticketing.

The Scottish Society of the Monterey Peninsula out to celebrate the famous Scottish poet, Robert Burns, for the 23rd time were pleased to find "the Haggis" served to them was the best they ever had. The Haggis, served with "a wee drap (of Scotch) tae clear the way," was prepared by the Sheraton's banquet chef Paul A. Parr from an European cookbook in his collection. It was consumed with relish. Some Scots asked for seconds.

Before it was served, The Haggis was paraded with pomp-and-circumstance around the ballroom. Andrew Cowan, with the assistance of Brian Campbell, gave the traditional "Haggis Wi' A' The Honours" and a toast with a shot of fine aged Scotch whiskey. He ended with "We hae meat and we can eat and siad the Lord 'Be Thankit.' "

Dinner chairman Stephen Henderson was a charming master of ceremonies keeping the celebration and merriment flowing at a high party pitch. He popped back and forth from the table to the microphone announcing "Saying of Grace" by Graeme Mackenzie; recognizing Tom Carr (who entertained

WENDY BRODIE and Robert Bussinger chatted with photographer Tom Millea at the MPMA art reception.

ARTIST EDMUND Moody talked with art critic Rick Deragon at a reception and opening of his works at the PG Art Center.

with songs accompanied by Myron McTavish at the piano); Amy Krupsky (harpist), Robbin Keeler (hammering his dulcimer); or announcing the Scottish Country Dancers who did three numbers; and the various Scottish toasts.

We all know that a Scottish dinner could not begin without pipers. Michael Gilen and Paul Hodgins set the pace with their bagpipes for the Ceremonial Entrance of the Board of Governors, members and guests into the dining room.

The feaste beganith with a salad of Scottish lettuce, Marinated Heart of Thistle and Enoki (Uh-oh) Mushrooms. The Haggis was followed by Roasted Beefe in Bernaise, Campbell's Potatoes (leeks and other sundrie thing init). Another parade brought the Tuxedo Cake of Scottish Cream and Dark Chocolate. (Luscious!)

Throughout "The Feaste" diners halted briefly for a number of toasts. "Tae the President," "Tae the Queen," "Tae the Tartan," "Tae the Lassies" and "Tae the Laddies." Given by Stephen Henderson, Brian Campbell, John McGilvray (melting the heart of every lassie present), and Miriam McGilvray doing the same for the laddies.

The "piece de resistance" was Taelan Thomas. Taelen did more than read selected Robbie Burns poetry. (He said if he read it all it would take six or seven years). He became Robbie Burns as he told about his hard life. The poet, born 231 years and two days ago, was the son of a failed farmer (from a long line of failed farmers). Despite the humble beginnings, Robbie did acquire a good education, traveled some, had fun with the lassies wherever he went (his last child was born just hours after his funeral), and wrote memorable poetry and songs.

Lastly, plaid-clad lassies and kilted laddies from all over the area joined the Tribute to Robert Burns by singing Auld Lang Syne for which he gives credit to others, not himself, saying, "I heard it in a tavern and just added some words." This information came straight from the mouth of the great Scottish poet himself.

The art of watching the Super Bowl when you can really see it was a whopping success. A complete sellout — 800 cheering fans and a couple of football players, Ron Johnson (Philly Eagles) and M.L. Carter (Kansas City Chiefs).

Having more fun than anyone else were two tables of youngsters from The Boys Club of the Monterey Peninsula (The tables were donated by an anonymous businessman). They happily left with joyful hearts, banners, pennants and happy memories.

Others left with such door prizes as clock radios, tennis rackets, savings bonds, wine, food, dinners, golf packges and other donated items.

Norm Chetlin, the dynamo behind the idea, is happy with the fun and the funds gained for Meals on Wheels in Pacific Grove.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

Superlatives

NOW THAT we are past the Super Bowl, the "ultimate" contest in professional football, I have to ask the question "If it's the ultimate game, how come they're going to play it again next year?"

This one couldn't be referred to as a contest under any definition of the word. 55-10? That isn't a contest, it's Napoleon at Waterloo; it's being assigned to the Titanic on its maiden voyage; it's being a local peasant when Ghengis Khan comes to visit. The Rams and Vikings are celebrating. They should change the name of the Mississippi to the Little Big Horn. After what happened to Denver, their losses feel like victories. They, at least, went away with their heads still on their shoulders.

This 49er team ranks with Lombardi's Packers, with Shula's '72 Dolphins and, of course, with the Steelers, whose record of four Super Bowl victories, two of them back-to-back, they have just duplicated. The Los Angeles Rams' Norm Van Brocklin, the Baltimore Colts' Johnny Unitas and the Dallas Cowboys' Roger Staubach are quarterbacks around whom legends are, and will continue to be, spun. Now we can add Joe Montana to that list.

Now I have just managed to give credit where credit is due and yet not once was I required to use fantastic, outstanding, or the ever popular, incredible. I did use ultimate, but without it I wouldn't have been able to include my wonderfully witty question.

It isn't only in sports that superlatives abound, often having lost their effect from overuse (notice I said effect, not impact. Only hammers, bullets and fullbacks impact things). I can't seem to find anything that isn't new, or improved or, at least, larger than it used to be, sometimes only a few months ago. My cereal is new and improved, but I can't understand why. It doesn't say on the box. Our hot chocolate mix doesn't say it's any larger, but it does say I'm getting 2 1/2 more cups FREE! Maybe they just decided to put more into the usually half-empty container. I'm always suspicious of those two for one packs. When I open them, the contents still won't fill even one of the bags.

The laundry detergent is larger and I have several choices. I can buy regular, but the grocery clerk might think I've lost my job and start asking for a second ID. So I have to choose from the large size, or economy, or super.

Some products say they are better now, but often I am unable to determine exactly why, particularly when it's because of an added ingredient. I'm not at all certain how I benefit from .0086 gm. per serving of calsobicariosulphinate. Many things I buy are not only rich or fine, but they are extra rich and extra fine. Today, they are more likely to be super fine, or just super.

I don't think football has ever had a Big Bowl or an Extra Bowl. They just went directly to the Super Bowl, but in today's sporting events, no one wants to be ordinary. For example, the 49ers are now "world" champions. This, despite the fact they have played only in America and there is no international competition. Even when major professional football is played in other countries, it is usually played between two visiting American teams. The same is true of the "World" Series in baseball, of course, the winner being titled the "world" champion despite the fact that Cuba and Japan have excellent baseball leagues, neither of which has ever been invited to compete in the "world" series.

We Americans have a fascination with the "biggest" and the "best." In sports numerous awards are given to the "best" athlete in some category or other. There are so many of these awards, nearly everyone can be nominated for something. In football, the most prestigious award for college players is the Heisman Trophy, which according to rumor goes to the "best" college football player of the year. Nevertheless, Jim Brown never won the Heisman. Neither did Otto Graham nor Hugh NcElhenny. Sammy Baugh, Gale Sayers and Walter Payton finished low in the balloting, as did Lynn Swann, Eric Dickerson and John Elway. Many of those who did win it were never heard from again.

Superlatives were intended to denote something above the ordinary, but their common use has left us with few things worthy of most of them. This year's Montana, Craig Taylor, Rice and company may be an exception.

SINCE SUPERLATIVES often tend to exaggerate, the following anecdote may be enjoyable, if not entirely relevant. When President Lincoln was asked how many soldiers the Confederate Army had in the field, he answered without hesitation "Twelve hundred thousand." His audience, somewhat shocked by this figure, was, skeptical, but the President displayed no doubt about the accuracy of this number. "Every time one of my generals loses a battle," he explained, "he tells me he was outnumbered three to one. We have 400,000 soldiers in our Army and three times four is 12. So, I have no doubt the Confederates have twelve hundred thousand." It is likely John Elway believes there were twelve hundred thousand 49ers on the field last Sunday.

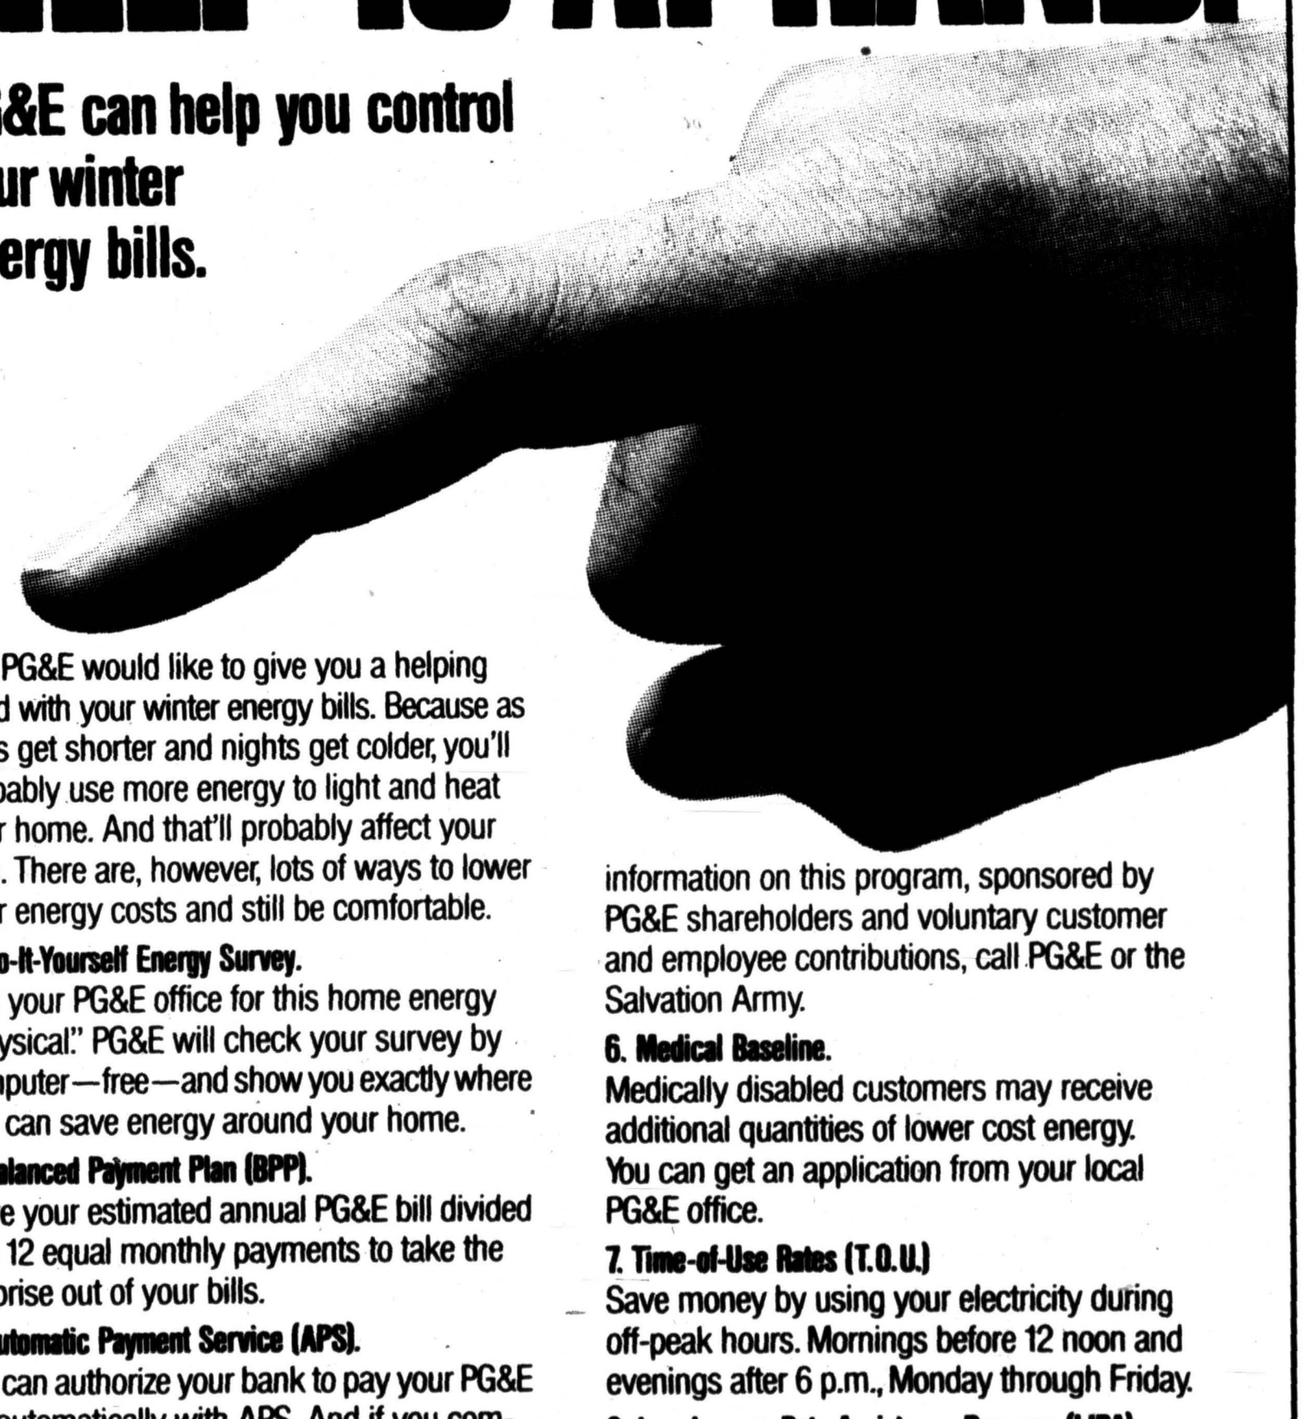
"Self-Giving, Loyal Concern, That Accepts Another And Seeks His Good."

HELP IS AT HAND.

PG&E can help you control your winter energy bills.



PG&E would like to give you a helping hand with your winter energy bills. Because as days get shorter and nights get colder, you'll probably use more energy to light and heat your home. And that'll probably affect your bills. There are, however, lots of ways to lower your energy costs and still be comfortable.

1. Do-It-Yourself Energy Survey.
Ask your PG&E office for this home energy "physical." PG&E will check your survey by computer—free—and show you exactly where you can save energy around your home.

2. Balanced Payment Plan (BPP).
Have your estimated annual PG&E bill divided into 12 equal monthly payments to take the surprise out of your bills.

3. Automatic Payment Service (APS).
You can authorize your bank to pay your PG&E bill automatically with APS. And if you combine this service with BPP, you'll know exactly how much to deduct from your checkbook every month.

4. Direct Weatherization.
PG&E will arrange to weatherize the homes of families who are in need and qualify. This service is absolutely free.

5. Project REACH.
Elderly, low-income or handicapped customers who are unable to pay their bills can apply for financial assistance from REACH. For more information on this program, sponsored by PG&E shareholders and voluntary customer and employee contributions, call PG&E or the Salvation Army.

6. Medical Baseline.
Medically disabled customers may receive additional quantities of lower cost energy. You can get an application from your local PG&E office.

7. Time-of-Use Rates (T.O.U.)
Save money by using your electricity during off-peak hours. Mornings before 12 noon and evenings after 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

8. Low-Income Rate Assistance Program (LIRA).
This new program allows low-income customers who qualify to get a 15% discount on their monthly energy bill. Call PG&E to get an application.

For more information on any of these programs, call PG&E. We'll help you get a handle on your winter energy bills.

Nothing but the best

THAT WOULD be the interior designs being created at Gayle Baddeley/Associates located in the Court of the Fountains on Mission Street.

Having owned a home in Carmel for the past eight years, Baddeley and associate William Fleming opened a store decorated in the "California" look. They are assisted in their work by local designer Deberah McAlqee, with the boutique being managed by Margaret Reade.

"They opened the store to establish themselves in the community," says Reade.

Bert Vieta holds the fort down at headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah.

With 15 years of experience in the field, Gayle Baddeley/-Associates have decorated some of the finest homes, restaurants and condos in the United States, including the governor's mansion in Salt Lake City.

Antique restoration is also a specialty at Gayle Baddeley/-Associates, "You name it," says Reade, "and they will do it."

Down in the valley... The CV Chamber of Commerce has installed its new officers for the coming year.

These would be: President Steve Austin, CV Family Dental Care; first vice president Bob Infelise, CUSD superintendent; second vice president John McCord, Carmel Valley Inn; secretaries Linda Horning, attorney and Kathryn Hoshor, Pieces of Heavan; and Vivian Miller, First Interstate Bank.

And that's not all...New members at the CV Chamber are Pac Bell, William Giles Studio and Village Gallery, Formsnet, Total Dog and Hair Spectacular.

Making a taxing situation easier... The 1989 edition of TurboTax personal software is now available.

The program includes pull-down menus, enhanced screen graphics, on-line assistance and state and federal IRS forms.

Manufactured by San Diego-based ChipSoft, Inc., the program served 2 million taxpayers last year. This year TurboTax offers the additional convenience of electronic filing, via modem.

TurboTax requires 384K for IBM compatible computers running DOS 2.0 to 3.1. For DOS 3.2 or higher, TurboTax requires 512K.

Hotel news... Joseph Woodward, president of Carmel-based Oak Tree Hotels, has been re-elected to the board of directors of the California Hotel & Motel Association.

The association is a statewide, Sacramento-based non-profit trade organization dedicated to promoting the economic, employment and cultural benefits and the state's $22.8 billion hotel and motel industry.

Woodward has served as president of Oak Tree Hotels since 1987 and oversees, among other properties, the 100-room Carmel Valley Ranch Resort.

And that's not all, speaking of CV Ranch Resort. The Hideaway Report, a connoisseur's guide to peaceful and unspoiled places in its 11th year of publication, has named the hotel as "Resort of the Year."

To be considered for the award, "an establishment must be relatively intimate in size and be located in genuinely peaceful and aesthetic surroundings."

Hotels are also judged for their all-around comfort and ability to make guests feel special.

New to you... The Player's Club, offering classic golf clubs, has moved to Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth, across from Bud's Pub.

The Player's Club offers you the chance to play and invest in classic golf clubs from the early 1900s to the present.

Also, Visions Gallery, the home of premier Central Coast artists, had its grand opening under the ownership of Frank St. Denis and Bill DeCarolis last week.

The boutique is located on Dolores near Sixth, with an additional site in Morro Bay.

There's more. Mission Art Gallery and Studio on Mission Street will hold a champagne reception from 4-7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3 to present the works of artist John Jennings.

The works show marine and nature scenes in a style called "translume," which sees works overpainted with invisible imager that appears in vivid color.

Such a streak... Quail Lodge has captured the coveted Five-Star Award from Mobile Travel Guide for the 14th consecutive year.

"Five-Star means that the establishment is in an elite category, among the very best in the country," says Mobil Corp. CEO Allen Murray. "Dedication to excellence, impeccable service, superior facilities, surperb hospitality, and, above all, tireless pursuit of perfection make Quail Lodge one of the finest establishments in America."

Quail Lodge is the only Five-Star resort between San Francisco and Los Angeles and only one of 22 lodgings in North America to receive the honor.

Artists offered tax workshop

Back by popular demand, Ron Vincent will explain the intricacy of artists' taxes at a workshop set Saturday, Feb. 3 at the Pacific Grove Art Center.

Vincent, a C.P.A. with the Berkeley firm of Vincent and Rose, performed this feat last year and has been asked to return by the Board of Artists Equity Central Coast Chapter. With a background in theater arts before he became an accountant, he has developed a specialty in the subject of tax regulations as applied to visual and performing artists.

The workshop is co-sponsored by Artists Equity and the Art Center and begins at 2 p.m.

CARMEL CITIZEN OF THE YEAR CELEBRATION SET

The second annual Carmel Citizen of the Year Celebration sponsored by the Carmel Residents Association will be held Sunday, Feb. 4 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Scout House (northeast corner Eighth and Mission).

"It's important that we recognize and honor those who contribute so much to maintaining the quality of life we enjoy here," said CRA President Barbara Brooks. And, according to Selection Committee Chairman J.S. Holliday, "Reading through the many nominations, one soon realizes how many outstanding individuals we have in Carmel and how much they accomplish to protect our village."

Gourmet food will be donated by 20 Carmel restaurants, lively music will be provided by Judy and Bruce Cowan. Admission cost is $5 per person and tickets can be purchased from CRA Board members or at the door.

Last year 62 nominations were received and Councilman Jim Wright was selected for the honor. In presenting the award, J.S. Holliday cited the many civic contributions Wright has made as a member of the planning commission and city council. Holliday said, "For years he has been a steady, courageous, intelligent force — protecting Carmel, unwilling to compromise his convictions."

The criteria for selection of the Citizen of the Year are based primarily on City Ordinance 96 which states that Carmel is "primarily, essentially, and predominantly a residential city."

Celebrating their 75th

CARMEL MAYOR Jean Grace presented a letter of appreciation from the city to the local Kiwanis Club at a recent luncheon at Pine Inn celebrating Kiwanis' 75th anniversary. Accepting the letter were (left to right): Dick Vance, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 43; Gary Ritter, club president; and Fred Fouzenmayeh, past lieutenant governor. The highlight of the luncheon was the presentation of the anniversary cake that was led in by Scottish bagpipe player Jason Bond, who played Happy Birthday. Fouzenmayeh and Vance were keynote speakers. Kiwanis International is represented in 74 countries, with 11,000 clubs and nearly 330,000 members worldwide.

What's the benefit?

WHAT IS this benefit to you? You may qualify to have your monthly Medicare premium paid for and also will cover the Medicare cost sharing amounts (deductibles and coinsurance) for which you are responsible.

NOTE: You may qualify for the benefit even if you are already receiving Medi-Cal or if you have previously applied for Medi-Cal and been denied.

For more information you may call this toll free number: 1-800-292-8919, or call your local county Department of Social Services. In Salinas call 757-5905 and in Monterey call 899-8001. Well, it is tax time again and you may receive assistance from either the Alliance on Aging or the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). For information on AARP, call the Salinas library.

AN IMPORTANT REMINDER: Many of the bills passed by the State Legislature that benefit the senior citizen are partially initiated by the Senior Legislature. On the California Tax Return Form 540, under step 10 there is a check-off for Voluntary Contributions.

Line 44, California Fund for Senior Citizens allows you to contribute any amount you wish, and it is deductible on both the state and federal tax return. Although there are over 11 million taxpayers, less than 5 percent of them made donations to the voluntary check-off list.

The check-off funds on your state income tax return are:

- Alzheimer's Disease and related Disorders Fund
- California Fund For Senior Citizens
- Rare and Endangered Species Preservation Program
- Children's Fund for the Prevention of Child Abuse
- United States Olympic Committee Fund
- Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund
- California Election Campaign Fund

Each of the above funds help with major needs. Please consider the California Fund for Senior Citizens as one of your choices.

(Need information on senior affairs? Write "Senior Line, Area Agency on Aging, 1184 Monroe Street, Suite 10, Salinas, CA., 93906 or call 372-7662 or 757-5905. "Senior Line" needs your name, address and phone number, but these will be withheld on request. Printed letters may be edited to meet space requirements.)

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Either the human species has a future, or it does not.

If it does, then those making successful applications of the powerful and exciting new concepts in volitional science and the Theory of Primary Property will have built that future. THEY AND THEY ALONE.

If it does not, and they should tragically fall short of the mark, they still would have had the satisfaction of responding like MEN at a time when the fate of the world and the future of mankind were hanging in the balance, and before they were overwhelmed.

So, if you happen to be among the many who—instead of doing what's RIGHT and letting the chips fall where they may—wait for a consensus to form before taking action, or look to see which way the wind's blowing before going outdoors, or wait for the bandwagon to start rolling before jumping aboard, you'll be interested to learn that—regardless of the final outcome—

THERE CAN BE ONLY ONE WINNING SIDE, AND I'M ON IT!!!

NEW EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AT MCCC

President Roderick L. Dewar, on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Monterey County Cultural Council, announced the appointment of David Cloutier as executive director of the council.

Cloutier comes to the council by way of San Francisco, where he recently relocated from the East Coast. He has an extensive professional and administrative background in the arts.

A poet and literary translator with 14 volumes published, he graduated from Brown University with a master's degree in English and creative writing. He has conducted writing workshops and presented lectures and informal talks on creativity in a variety of settings. He has also given numerous public readings from his works, including a recent appearance at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Active in literary publishing, he produced more than 40 volumes of poetry, fiction, drama and translation for presses associated with Brown University and subsequently served as founding editor of an award-winning literary journal.

Together with his wife Anne Greene (a visual artist), he operated a fine arts gallery in Newport, R.I. Later, he directed a community arts council in North Carolina, creating a multifaceted program of high-quality offerings. Cloutier has also conducted a historic house restoration endeavor in New England as well as an antiques and collectibles business. Cloutier said he sees his position as not only a facilitator and advocate for the county's many existing cultural organizations but also as an encourager and nurturer of the creative spark in each person. He is committed to working closely with the county's underserved populations and hopes that the council's multicultural project will help provide new cultural opportunities for Monterey County's various ethnic communities.

He is joined in Monterey County by his wife Anne and his son Perrin. They will make their home in Carmel.

One of Quinn's first duties was to appoint committee chairmen and members for 1990. He and Fair Manager Perry Slocum worked together to make the appointments.

Affair in the Village

A CAPACITY Crowd turned out for "A Village Affair" fund-raiser at Los Laureles Lodge last month. The event, which featured food and wine from a variety of Carmel Valley restaurants and wineries, included both a silent and live auction of items donated by area businesses, from office supplies, paintings and dinners to a Sun Valley ski package valued at $2,500. Proceeds from the event — put on by the Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee — will help fund a pedestrian pathways program. Reading off winners of the door prizes (far left), were Pat Duval, the "Singing Sheriff," and Randy Randazzo. Enjoying the festivities (above, left to right), were Carmel Mayor Jean Grace, and winemakers Pidge and D. Tim Watson. (Chuck Scardina photos.)

NURSING CLASSES TO BEGIN IN CARMEL

Basic Home Nursing classes will be starting in February for individuals interested in developing their caregiver skills. Sponsored by the Red Cross, and marketed by the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council, the class is being held in Salinas, Seaside, and Carmel. An excellent textbook is provided. Couples are encouraged to attend so that whichever one becomes the caregiver, they will know how to cope...and save their back and energy. Cost of the 12-hour class (six sessions of two hours), is $15.

"This is the best New Year's resolution you can make for yourself," said Betty Plank, chairwoman of the Program Development Committee. "There are five million elderly being cared for in their homes. These five million are being cared for mostly by families. Everyone needs this class as we are only a moment away from being a caregiver. It can happen to any of us. We should adopt the Boy Scout's slogan and be prepared."

Interested persons can enroll in the class by calling their closest Red Cross office.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION ESTABLISHES MEMORIAL FUND FOR PEN KENDALL

The Community Foundation for Monterey County announced today the establishment of a memorial fund in the general endowment in memory of George P. Kendall, a former board member of the foundation who passed away on Jan. 12. The Kendall Fund is open to contributions from any source in any amount, and the income from the fund will be used by the board of the foundation for general grantmaking purposes.

CARMEL STUDENT STUDYING IN FRANCE

Hilary Spaulding, a Dartmouth College sophomore from Carmel, is studying French language and culture in Toulouse, France this winter as a participant in Dartmouth's Foreign Study Program there.

Foreign Study Programs are designed to expand Dartmouth's curriculum into new areas of academic and cultural understanding. Such programs have existed at the college since 1958, when opportunities for extensive study of language, literature and other aspects of civilization were made available in France, Germany, and Spain. Now Dartmouth has 18 Foreign Study Programs in 12 countries.

Spaulding, daughter of Norman and Jennifer Spaulding of Carmel, is a 1988 graduate of Carmel High School. She was class president and captain of the field hockey team.

Dartmouth is the ninth oldest college in the United States and the northernmost of the Ivy League institutions. Noted as one of the most competitive colleges in the nation, Dartmouth has a total enrollment of some 4,000 undergraduates and nearly 1,000 graduate students.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS

OBITUARIES

Beth Knox

A memorial service took place at the Hospice of the Central Coast, for Beth Knox, a pianist, music teacher and resident of Carmel for the past nine years, who died Jan. 7 at the Hospice. She was 85.

Born in Nome, Alaska, on June 25, 1904, Mrs. Knox moved to Seattle, Wash., as a teen-ager and graduated from Queen Anne High School. Devoted to classical music, she moved to Carmel for 10 years in 1951, and in 1961 she traveled to Vienna, Austria, to study piano for three years.

She moved back to Seattle, where she worked for The Dance Shop, and later returned again to Europe for further piano studies in the 1970s. Mrs. Knox then settled at Hacienda Carmel.

She is survived by two sisters, Grace Fontes and Doris Brand, both of Hacienda Carmel; two daughters, Thelma Beck of the Channel Islands, and Gloria Lamb of Mesa, Ariz., and two grandsons.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice.

Glenn D. Williams

Memorial services took place Jan. 20 at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Monterey, for Glenn De Wolfe Williams, a retired postal supervisor, who died Jan. 16 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 83.

Mr. Williams, who was born April 11, 1906, in St. Louis, Mo., lived in Carmel from 1973. He worked as a supervisor for the U.S. Postal Service before retiring.

He is survived by his wife of 60 years, Alice Hagemeyer Williams; three daughters, Joan Hendrick of Pebble Beach, Claire Buhl of St. Louis, Mo., and Marcia Zahner of St. Charles, Mo.; six grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

Maxine D. Singleton

Memorial services took place Jan. 20 at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, for Maxine D. Singleton, who died Jan. 14 at her home in Carmel.

Mrs. Singleton was born March 15, 1917, in San Francisco and lived in Carmel for 19 years. She had been a volunteer at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco for 20 years and was a member of the Carmel Foundation.

She is survived by a son, Laurence Hutchinson of Pittsburgh, Pa.; a daughter, Diane Jackson of Aptos; and one grandchild.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Juanita C. Belcher

Inurnment took place under the direction of the Mission Mortuary, for Juanita C. Belcher of Carmel, who died Dec. 9 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 89.

Mrs. Belcher, a homemaker, was born on Nov. 25, 1900, in St. Paul, Minn. She lived in the Monterey Bay area for 24 years.

With her husband, Stewart, she owned and operated the Gardener's Friend in Carmel for many years. Both were longtime members of the Carmel Foundation. Mr. Belcher died in January 1988.

There are no known survivors.

In accordance with Mrs. Belcher's wishes, no services took place.

Memorial contributions may be sent to the Carmel Foundation, P.O. Box 3424, Carmel.

Alta Lawyer Enright

Memorial services took place Jan. 24 at Carmel Presbyterian Church for Alta Lawyer Enright of Carmel Valley, a retired dress designer and business woman, who died Jan. 11 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 87.

Born on Dec. 19, 1902, in Duluth, Minn., Mrs. Enright, known as Susie, had owned her own shop, Alta Gowns, on Union Square in San Francisco. She had lived in Carmel Valley for the past eight years.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph; a brother, Val Gemberling of Seattle; a stepson, Joseph Jr. of Fairfax, Va.,; and a niece and nephew.

The family prefers that any memorial contributions be sent to the American Heart Association, 76 Stephanie Drive, Salinas. 93901.

Glenn Owen Powell

Cremation arrangements, under the direction of the Neptune Society of San Jose, took place for Glenn Owen Powell, a Carmel artist, who died Jan. 16 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 66.

He was born Dec. 13, 1923, in Denver, Colo., and served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Mr. Powell was well known in the community for painting abstract fantasies inspired by Eastern spiritualism. He also worked as an art restorer for galleries in Carmel and was a charter member of the Carmel Art Association.

He studied at the Glendale School of Allied Arts in Southern California and at the Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles on a scholarship from the National Society of Arts and Letters. After he completed his studies, he moved to Carmel.

He is survived by a sister, Dolores Perlin of Santa Ana.

Marjorie S. Griffith

Marjorie S. Griffith of Carmel, a retired teacher with the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District, died Jan. 14 at her home. She was 58.

Mrs. Griffith was born May 27, 1931, in Oakland, and lived in Carmel for 30 years. A reading specialist, she taught in Monterey Peninsula schools for 15 years.

She was a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, where she was a member of Delta Gamma Sorority. She earned a master's in education from San Jose State University, and she was a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, a teacher's sorority.

She is survived by a son, William of San Francisco; and a step-daughter, Lyn Bueschel of Concord, N.H.; her brother and sister-in-law, Thomas and Helen Slaven of Olivenhain in San Diego County; and an aunt.

At her request, no services took place.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to Vista Nova Home for the Blind, 531 Prescott St., Pasadena 91140.

Glenn A. Pitts.

Glenn A. Pitts, a former Carmel Valley resident, died Jan. 13 at Indian Valley Hospital in Greenville. He was 73.

Born Aug. 10, 1916, in Ada, Ark., Mr. Pitts lived in Carmel Valley for more than 20 years. He moved to Greenville about 15 years ago and worked for a time as a bricklayer.

He was a veteran of the U.S. Army and a member of Loners on Wheels, RV Club.

He is survived by a brother, Donald of Carmel Valley, and two sisters, Shirley Olmsted of Carmel Valley and Ruth Price of Tacoma, Wash.

At his request, no services took place. Arrangements were under the direction of Fehrman Mortuary of Greenville.

Charles T. Hall

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by private inurnment, for Charles T. Hall of Carmel, a retired real estate broker, who died Jan. 20 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 66.

Mr. Hall, who moved to Carmel five months ago from Montclair, N.J., was born in Montclair on Sept. 23, 1923.

He was a graduate of Colgate University and a World War II veteran of the U.S. Navy Air Corps.

Survivors include his wife, Eileen; three sons, Jeffrey T. of Cedar Grove, N.J., Stephen N. of Soquel and Charles S. Williston, Vt.; a sister, Virginia Cameron of Delray Beach, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

Private memorial services will take place at a later date.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Central Coast.

Jim Ross Orton

Private burial took place in El Carmelo Cemetery, for Jim Ross Orton of Pebble Beach, who owned an agricultural and construction equipment company in Stratford. He died Jan. 21 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 67.

A 26-year resident of Pebble Beach, Mr. Orton was born Aug. 7, 1922, in Watsonville. He was president of Orton's Equipment Co. in Stratford and also was a cattle rancher in Priest Valley.

He was a member of the American Kennel Club, Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Stillwater Yacht Club, Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club and the St. Francis Yacht Club. He was also a past member of the Kings County Sheriff's Posse.

Mr. Orton was a Marine Corps combat photographher in World War II.

Survivors include his wife, Harriet; two sons, Mike of Lemoore and David of Stratford; a daughter, Pat Crouch of Hanford; and six grandchildren.

Private memorial services will take place at a later date.

The family suggests thay any memorial contributions be sent to the Valley Children's Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, or to Robert Louis Stevenson School.

Grace Hess Elliot

Private cremation took place at Monterey City Cemetery for Grace Hess Elliott, who owned and operated Beverly Antiques Shop in Carmel, who died Jan. 21 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Mrs. Elliot was born June 26, 1903, in Topeka, Kan. She was a member of the San Francisco Ceramic Circle, the Art Asia Museum of Monterey, the Appraisers Association of America, the Antique Dealers Association of California and the Antique Dealers Association of America.

Prior to coming to Carmel eight years ago, Mrs. Elliot operated an antique shop in Los Angeles for 40 years.

She is survived by a son, John Charles Elliott of Carmel. She also was a dear friend of Lawrence Burnstone of Carmel.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements. A memorial service will take place at a later date.

Memorial contributions are suggested to go to Guide Dogs for the Blind Inc., P.O. Box 1200, San Rafael 94915.

Eleanor Horne

A requiem Mass was celebrated Jan. 25 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Carmel Valley, for Eleanor Call Horne, a writer, inventor, poet and businesswoman, who died Jan. 22 at her Carmel Valley home. She was 83.

Mrs. Horne was born April 28, 1906, in Franklin, Pa. She was co-founder, with her husband, Frederick, and vice president of Airrigation Engineering Co. Inc., a company for soil amendment and water pollution control products and processes.

Mr. Horne died in 1987.

A 45-year resident of Carmel Valley, Mrs. Horne was an inventor of several patented products and a designer of architectural features used in homes she and her husband built in Carmel Valley. She also assisted in development of product improvements for the family business.

In 1945, she designed a radiant heating system for the family home that was featured in an article in Sunset magazine. She also designed an innovative stenographic service using taped dictation in the 1950s.

Survivors include three daughters, Mary El Gayman of Yorba Linda, Barbara Tiernan of Cupertino and Diana Waite of Anaconda, Mont., all three of whom followed their mother in developing products for the engineering company and helping in its operation. She is also survived by 14 grandchildren, and nine great grandchildren.

Graveside services took place at San Carlos Cemetery in Monterey.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Harrison Memorial Library Book Fund in Carmel.

Grace Elliott memorial set

A memorial celebration will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 4 in the Pebble Room of the Hyatt Regency Monterey for Grace Hess Elliott.

Memorial contributions are suggested to go to Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., PO Box 1200, San Rafael, Ca. 94915.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

On old age

From the Feb. 25, 1982
Carmel Pine Cone

A group of 30 Monterey Coutny citizens are going to the Republic of China for a goodwill and study mission. We met at a brunch with the Honorable H.P. Chung, the former consul general, now called director, to receive our visas for the approximately three-week tour beginning Feb. 17.

Mr. Chung told me he had arranged a special meeting for us at the mayor's office in Tainan, the Sister City of Monterey. He also arranged for me to visit the prison. "We are proud of our prison systen — it allows the prisoners to work, earn money and make restitution to those they have injured. It's like a family. Our crime rate is low because our family tradition is so strong, just as it was in old China before communism.

"You know you will receive a great welcome in Taiwan because everyone has a great respect for old age. With your age and your gray beard, you could even be a beggar and everyone will honor you."

I conceded that this would be a happy experience, but I thought I would not venture to put the beggar role to the test. When I told him that by Chinese reckoning I was 75 going on 76, he said, "Oh, that is very old indeed." I told him that on my first day in Taiwan, I intended to go to a tailor and purchase a chiang sam.

"With a chiang sam and your gray beard, you will be venerated as an ancient scholar."

We shall see. Marcus Tullius Cicero, 60 B.C., observed, "Give me a young man in whom there is something of the old and an old man with something of the young, guided so, a man may grow old in body but never in mind."

New pastor for Community Church

Inaugurating his ministry at The Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula on Sunday, Feb. 4 will be the new Senior Pastor of that church, the Rev. Ron Barton.

Rev. Barton comes to Community Church from his former post, where for 10 years he served as Associate Conference minister for The Northern California Conference of the United Church of Christ.

According to The Pacific, the publication of that organization, his efforts in that capacity were effective beyond the bounds of Northern California and earned for him a national reputation.

Prior to his service with the Northern California Conference he served churches in Redwood City, Alameda and Danville.

Jody Parsons, Rev. Barton's wife, is also a clergy in standing. She comes to Carmel from an executive position in The United Way of Contra Costa County.

The Golden Years

A new toll-free phone system has opened up instant communcations with the Socail Security Administration. The number is 800-234-5772, and the system operates 24 hours a day, every day. A computer routes calls to service centers whose lines are not tied up. Between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., weekdays, Social Security representatives answer questions or record new information from callers. At other times, a recording system operates. By listening to instructions and pressing specified touch-tone buttons, callers can report change of address or other information, or request a return call on the next business day. The new system allows almost all business with Socal Security t be conducted by phone. Appointments still can be made for in-person sessions at Social Security offices.

THE BARNYARD

"KEYBOARDS, REEDS and Dances" blends the talents of dancers from Tandy Beal and Company with that of jazz artists and composers Paul McCandless and Art Lande. The full-length concert arrives at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2-3, at the Performing Arts Center at Santa Catalina School on Mark Thomas Drive in Monterey. Tickets can be reserved through Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado St., Monterey, or call 649-5561.

Tandy Beal & Co. teams up with jazz performers

CELEBRATING its 15th anniversary, Tandy Beal and Company will be joined on stage by jazz artists and composers Art Lande and Paul McCandless, in a full-length evening concert, "Keyboards, Reeds and Dances." Performances are set at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2-3, in the Performing Arts Center at Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

Tandy Beal first met Art Lande in 1975 when she choreographed Forest Dreams to Lande's Verdulac. Lande saw the show, and as quoted in a Jazztimes review by John Detro, "It touched me in so many ways — funny, wondrous, lovely. All the things that make for something amazing. I went backstage afterwards and we were instant friends. How great to know that such a person exists. And we went on from there."

Tandy Beal and Company was founded in Santa Cruz in 1974 by artistic directors Tandy Beal and Jon Scoville. Within three years, the company added state and national touring to its agenda and its first international tour was in 1981.

Beal is known for her collaborative work with such artists as vocalist Bobby McFerrin, new vaudevillian Keith Terry, writers Irene Oppenheim and Remy Charlip, Japanese paper sculptor Kyoko Ibe and musician Frank Zappa. The collaboration with McFerrin resulted in a KQED television special, Voice/Dance, that is aired on PBS affiliates nationwide.

Art Lande has worked as a pianist, composer, arranger, band leader and percussionist in the San Francisco Bay Area, as well as in Switzerland, where he lived from 1984 to 1987. He has performed extensively with Paul McCandless in addition to numerous performances with such jazz artists as Joe Henderson, Bobby Hutcherson and Ted Curson.

His recording career includes works on the ECM, Arch Street, Elektra, Hip Pocket, Audio Daddio and Great American Music Hall record labels. In this performance, Lande plays various percussion instruments in addition to the piano. He currently lives in Boulder, Colo., where he is on the faculty of the Naropa Institute.

Paul McCandless grew up in Western Pennsylvania. He studied oboe, flute and English horn, and has performed with various symphony orchestras. From 1968 to 1974, McCandless appeared with the Paul Winter Consort. After leaving the ensemble, he began touring world-wide with his pioneering jazz quartet, Oregon.

ARTS & LEISURE

JULIE HYMER, Monterey Bay Aquarium senior aquarist, served as surrogate mother to Pico, a rescued two-week-old sea otter pup. She will recount the experience during a free program presented Saturday, Feb. 3 at the annual meeting of the Point Lobos Natural History Association. (Brant Ward photograph).

Sea otter expert describes task of helping orphaned pup

HOW CAN a human being successfully play the role of surrogate mother to a rescued two-week-old sea otter pup, train it in the otter behavior its own mother would have taught it, so that it can be released to the wild at maturity and survive?

This "first ever" feat Monterey Bay Aquarium Senior Aquarist Julie Hymer accomplished with sea otter pup Pico. She will tell the story in a slide lecture, open to the public with no admission charge, at the Point Lobos Natural History Association's annual meeting.

The meeting begins at 9:30 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 3, at the Carmel Women's Club, Ninth and San Carlos, Carmel.

"Five years ago the Aquarium started its pioneering Sea Otter Rescue and Care Program," explains Hymer. "We worked out ways of keeping rescued pups alive and raising them to maturity, but nothing was known about how to prepare them to survive in the wild. Did sea otters have built-in instincts that guided them? We found that they did not, that the things an otter pup needed to know had to be taught by its mother during the six to eight months she cared for it. So after Pico was rescued I became his surrogate mom."

How did she do it so successfully?

"You have to make yourself think like a sea otter mom, not a human being," says Hymer. "As a surrogate, I must duplicate the mother's training as far as I can, swimming with the pup from its earliest days, first in our tide pool, then out in the ocean. Little by little I show it what kind of food to look for, how to use a tool to crack shells, wrap itself in kelp to sleep, and so on. I hope the pup will mimic everything I do; that's why I have to think like an otter mom and teach it only things that will help it live in its natural environment."

The Monterey Bay Aquarium has had unique success in its Sea otter Rescue and Care Program, with about 20 people giving the rescued animals around-the-clock care. The ultimate goal of releasing sea otters to survive in the wild was at last achieved when Pico was released on Feb. 14, 1989. Since then he has been tracked in the waters north of Santa Cruz at Davenport and Ano Nuevo.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Bright roots

AND SO we welcome February — Black History Month. Since jazz was born and refined in the black community, checking out live shows seems one good way to celebrate the 28-day occasion. Some choices:

• He wrote the satirical classic entitled I'm Hip. Vocalist and pianist Bob Dorough will appear at Carmel Valley's Hidden Valley Music Seminars on Monday night (2/5). Local assist Buddy Jones (also the booker) will work behind Bob with South American drummer Luis Peralta. Starts at eight o'clock; just $8 per at the door. Sometimes called The Arkansas Traveler, Bob mixes wild wit and musical sophistication. (On March 1, he'll have a new album issued by new label — Pinnacle Records releasing Skabadabba.)

• Bright roots. On Saturday evening (2/3), M&A Productions will stage a wondrous gospel concert at Pacific Grove Middle School Auditorium. Seven o'clock start; Triumph Family opens for the Grammy-winning Mighty Clouds of Joy. Tickets: $13 at the door, $12 advance, $5 for youngsters 7-12. Ducats may be purchased beforehand at Recycled Records, Monterey Bible Bookstore, Do Re Mi Music. Melvin and Audrey Williams celebrate their fourth anniversary as gospel show producers hereabouts.

• Pianist Ace Hill begins a steady gig on Thursday night (2/1) in Doubletree Lounge. He'll be there Thursday through Saturday evenings each week. Duo situation with bassist.

• Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz offers The Cortet (fronted by reedman John Cortes) on Friday night (2/2). John Donaldson at the piano, drummer Dan Sabanovich, Dan Seamans and his bass. Door charge of $5 per; eight o'clock kick.

The group on Monday evening (2/5) — Paul Motian Trio with Paul playing drums, Bill Frisell on guitar, saxist Joe Lovano. Motian has worked beside some of the best — Bill Evans, John Coltrane, Coleman Hawkins, Oscar Pettiford, on and on. It's $12 apiece; eight o'clock; Center Stage Ticketing.

Kuumbwa Director Tim Jackson newsleaks a couple of knockout bookings for April — Steve Lacy (4/16) and Jimmy Heath (4/23).

• Tandy Beal Dance Company joins jazzmen Art Lande and Paul McCandless in a partially improvised program called Keyboards, Reeds, and Dances. Friday and Saturday nights (2/2-3) at Santa Catalina School's Performing Arts Center. Eight o'clock; admission $12.50 or $10 (students and seniors); Center Stage Ticketing. Tandy's crew calls Santa Cruz home base, has drawn international praise. Keyboardist Art doubles on percussion for this show. Paul plays a variety of reed instruments with the band Oregon and (obviously) other configurations.

• Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club spotlights the Latin fusion group Oceana on Thursday night (2/1). Then: Kevin Feeney plus What's Up (2/2-3), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (2/4), Don Pendergrass (2/5), Jack and Ed Show (2/6), Higher Feelings (2/7-8).

• UC/Santa Cruz announces a concert by Toshiko Akiyoshi Jazz Orchestra. Saturday evening (2/3) at the on-campus Performing Arts Theater. Eight o'clock. Ticket info: 408-459-2826.

WITTY GUY — Singer and jazz pianist Bob Dorough has a date coming up very shortly at Hidden Valley Music Seminars. See column for the details.

• Carmel Classic Arts Festivals suggests early ticket buys for its Carnaval '90 Monterey at Monterey Conference Center (2/10). The Brazilian troupe Batucaje and other music acts, dancing, costume contest, door prizes. Costs $20 per. Call 373-3250. More on all this next time.

• The griot (wandering African tale-spinner) lives deep within black history and jazz realities. Storyteller Awele Makeba will share folk materials beginning at seven o'clock on Thursday night (2/8) in Monterey Public Library's Community Room. No-cost program but advance reservations required (646-3930). Ages 16 and up only.

• Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra's back on track. Monday evenings. Mission Ranch Barn. It's $4 at the door. Food and bar service available.

• Jeff Linsky uses a custom-made requinto (3/4 size Spanish guitar). Jazz licks and whatever else pops into his head. Friday and Saturday evenings in the Lobby Lounge of Monterey Plaza Hotel.

GREATNESS CAME FORTH most casually at Kuumbwa Center. Tenor saxist Joe Henderson sort of stood around, sleeves rolled up, smiling almost shyly at large applause. When he played long solos, they were seemingly effortless and quite amazing.

Joe's sidemen didn't do anything wrong. When he's up on the stand, other players appear dwarfed. Only Mike Hyman impressed — he's that rare power drummer who lets silence have a say. (Eddie Moore came to mind while Mike sculpted and cooked.) For the record: Smith Dobson on piano, trumpeter Warren Gale, bassist John Wiitala.

Joe was into dramatic converse. For example, his take on Monk's Ask Me Now came off as a witty four-way chat — himself, Gene Ammons, Coleman Hawkins, Don Byas (the romantic Don of those early '50s recordings in Paris with Miss Mary Lou Williams). History made new through textural layering, inspiration, respect.

Henderson's unassuming manner resembled that of Ronnie Mathews, pianist who'd played brilliantly the week before with Louis Hayes Quintet. Ronnie looked surprised when I asked hopefully thoughtful questions about his long career. Do jazz artists take inattention for granted? Maybe some do; there's more to the matter. For all of its rough edges, the jazz life has produced some rare human beings — humble as well as smart.

Humility has nothing to do with weakness. Among our most misunderstood words, humility precedes wisdom. The wisdom of Joe Henderson and Ronnie Mathews shines at the bottom of everything they play.

BIG BAND BUFFS will have great fun absorbing a new show over KRML Jazz Radio (1410AM). Hosted by bandleader Les Brown and his son, the two-hour syndicated entry may be heard at six o'clock Saturday nights.

The debut featured a telephone interview with Carmel Valley's Doris Day — and some of the delightful lady's recorded work. Miss Day was part of the Les Brown organization for five years.

Other guests will include Mel Torme and outstanding musicians of the big band era. In all, says the KRML announcement, the format will present "over 52 years of the finest big band music plus historical/personal comments and anecdotes by Les Brown."

An ongoing trivia quiz encourages audience participation. Co-host Les Brown Jr. plays a continuing role on TV's General Hospital.

REEL STUFF: Jazz harpist Corky Hale works in movie production too. She and literary agent Shirley Strick obtained remake rights on Now, Voyager. That's the 1942 Bette Davis classic. So far a writer has been assigned through Magnus Films; Kathleen Turner and Jessica Lange reportedly have expressed interest.

Spike Lee's Do The Right Thing has entered the home video market. Listen well and you'll discover that the soundtrack's a masterpiece all by itself: jazz, rappers, general street beat.

ART NOTES

By Sam Colburn

The joy of discovery

DURING THE YEAR just past, residents of and visitors to the Monterey Peninsula have enjoyed great activity in the arts. It is still true that this is an island, but the artists here have their own imagery to develop. They are not dependent on what is going on in Paris, New York or Los Angeles.

A number of local institutions are part of this development. Among them are the Carmel Art Association, the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the Pacific Grove Art Center, the Seaside City Hall and the Central Coast Art Association. The Monterey Peninsula Foundation of Art has brought famous artists in from other areas to give lectures. Artists Equity sponsored an Open Studio Tour which was very successful. People want to see where artists live and where they work. They want to poke around, then theirs is the joy of discovery. Modern merchandising is, I suppose necessary, but it is also a way of selling which does not necessarily have anything to do with the inherent value of artwork.

Artists used to be "nationally known," now they are "internationally known." Actually very few can be thus classified. How many Picassos or Salvador Dalis are there? I was once amused by a hoax that the giant publishing house of Doubleday perpetrated. They created an artist out of whole cloth. As I remember, his name was Don Jose Campalan. He was a contemporary of Picasso's, and reproductions of his paintings were reproduced in the book.

A man who helped develop international modernism was Lorser Feitelson. The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is presenting a show of paintings which he did from 1919 to 1929. From looking at this work, it would seem, curiously enough, that he was more abstract in the early work, and became more representational in later years. He was very involved, as was Cezanne, with the use of space, which has been a major concern of the Modern Movement. Now we have Post Modern which is a curious term. Feitelson's ascending lines are dynamic, never static. He used them to express tension within a proscribed area. It is strange that his color is flat. There is nothing of the joyous vibrancy of pigment that characterised Les Impressionistes.

WHAT HAPPENS in art when East meets West? You may see by going to the Christopher Grimes Gallery on Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh in Carmel. The name of the artist is Brian Yoshimi Isobe, which is beautiful in itself. When you have two cultures meeting, all hell can break loose which is not true at all with Brian's work. His is a simplifying of forces so that the result is austere and spare. I do not see much influence of the Occident. It is such a relief from the crowded canvases of many contemporary painters.

Let me draw attention to three black and whites in which he used pastel, graphite, acrylic and charcoal. These works are contained by severe black frames. The reduction of forms results in an essence of minimalism.

THE GRAND AVENUE Gallery in Pacific Grove is new. I had not seen the work of the artists being shown there. There is a rather small ceramic sculpture entitled "Pleasure in Balance" that is whimsical and fun. Am sorry that I cannot give the name of the artist, because it does not seem to be on the menu. Kathy Getty is represented by large, non-objective work in mixed media entitled "Messages." "Busy Grey and Pinks" and "Columns" are small abstracts in oil and crayon by Catherine Courtenaye. They are "soft edge" and charming. "View from Pogonip" is an oil by Barbara Lawrence — one of several that she has on the walls. She uses the space well. Colors are mostly cool, against which the splashes of warm color really sing out. A gentleman by the name of Axelsson who works in wrought iron shows elegant sets of fireside tools.

WALKING AROUND CARMEL I found a gallery that I had not seen before. Going inside was rather like meeting old friends. This is the Masterpiece Gallery at Sixth and Dolores. Although I never knew Charles Rollo Peters, his night scenes of buildings or houses were very familiar to me. There was always a warm glow from the windows. This gallery has one of his oils entitled "Monterey Pacific Building at Night." Among the founders of the Carmel Art Association was Armin Hansen. He was a big man who had twisted his eyebrows until the hair came to a point. Of all those early painters, he may be the one whose talent will be considered most importaant.

One of the first woman painters in the Carmel Art Association was Mary DeNeale Morgan who is represented by an oil of a scene in the Carmel Highlands. Another old timer in this collection is Abel Warhawsky. He was an artist who first studied and painted in Paris. To me his oils became more orthodox after he came to this country, but the one at the Masterpiece Gallery was done in Mexico and I did not recognize it as his.

A loose and juicy painter, S.C. Yuan, who came here from China, is part of the current show with two small works, one an oil and the other, gouache.

Among the other artists in this gathering is Paul Lauritz. He set up his easel in Southern California. His oil of a landscape has a bright and shimmering light. The Society of Six has lately come into prominence. One of the painters in that group was August Gay. He lived near me in Carmel Woods, and made furniture. Too bad. He could not sell enough paintings, and now they must be quite valuable. I had met another member of this bunch, Maurice Logan, but never really knew him. His work is at the Masterpiece Gallery,the only one out of the six represented. There is also a bright and lively oil by Helen Ochler. She handles a group of women doing their laundry very well. When I traveled in Mexico in 1939, the men all wore white, and so did the ladies along with black shawls. Helen must have painted this before the blue jean made its way south of the border.

Edgar Payne was a great man for the big vistas of the West. He was born in Missouri, made his way across the plains, and died in California, but not before realizing the immensity of nature as in "Great Mountain."

There are artists who paint, draw, or sculpt in order to keep the pot boiling, but at the same time create works of original imagery. I have known of some who kept four or five paintings going at the same time.

During the past year several new galleries have opened here on the Monterey Peninsula that are showing art that is fresh in concept. This is a hopeful indication that we are emerging from the valley of schlock.

Attention all singers

I CANTORI di Carmel is looking for a few good men! If you are a tenor, baritone or bass, can read music, and would like to join a choral society, contact Sal Ferrantelli at 373-5229 or 646-4208.

I Cantori di Carmel presents two concerts each year, at Christmas and in the spring. Each concert is performed with orchestra and professional soloists. The spring concert is scheduled for May 19 and 20, at the Carmel Mission. Rehearsals are Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. in Monterey. Rehearsals for the spring concert begin Jan. 31.

Although the group is particularly in need of male voices, all interested singers are welcome to audition. If you would like further information about I Cantori di Carmel, call Claire Parrish at 375-4475.

Translume creator paints double-imaged canvases

By ANNE PAPINEAU

AT FIRST glance, the paints on John Jennings' palette are crystal-clear. Working on what appears to be an already finished painting, he daubs on the clear substance, creating a "phantom" painting over the original image.

Jennings, a resident of Pacific Grove, calls himself "the father of this new artform." He named his paint "translume," and uses it to produce double-imaged canvases. Moon Over Monterey, for example, depicts in oils a Monterey Bay untouched by development. But when Jennings applies his ultraviolet lamp, the painting glows with city lights and such trademark structures as the Monterey Plaza Hotel and Monterey Bay Aquarium.

"I have a lot of fun with this. I'm really no mad scientist," Jennings explains.

Jennings attended Advertising Art School in Portland, Ore. His training led him to establish a graphics publishing company, producing posters, lithographs and greeting cards. He remains a highly commercial artist, and an ebullient one.

"These are actually two completely separate paintings on one surface," he says, gesturing to his canvas of the Golden Gate Bridge. "Under ultraviolet light, the fog will disappear and then you will see the lights of San Francisco, a boat passing under the bridge, and the heavy traffic going into Marin County."

He passes the glowing purple bulb over the painting, and indeed, headlights, illuminated skyscrapers and a boat appear. Jennings giggles at his vision.

Once a surrealist, the artist these days concentrates on paintings of sea life.

"I was very much a surrealist artist, from 1981 to 1984," he asserts. "Then I got very interested in marine life after seeing a whale beached in Oregon. It smelled terrible. I saw the eye of that whale and it looked so human to me. I gained a love of the sea."

New Arrival depicts a mother humpback whale which has just given birth. Swirling dolphins chase away sharks from the birthing area.

Whales at 20,000 Feet, when viewed under regular light, captures a pod of whales suspended in the clouds. Under black light, the "translume" image faithfully reflects the city of Anchorage, Alaska on the horizon.

"It's almost a hologram effect," Jennings says. "But with translume I can recreate all colors, and I understand that isn't possible with holograms. I have to be very careful with my paintings — not to paint over them by accident."

An open house and reception will showcase the translume paintings of John Jennings. The reception will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3 at the Mission Art Gallery and Studio, located on Mission Street between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

ONCE A surrealist, John Jennings paints chiefly marine art these days, using a medium he devised called Translume." Jennings creates two images on each canvas, one to be viewed under normal light and the other under ultraviolet light. An opening reception will honor his work Saturday, Feb. 3 at the Mission Art Gallery and Studio. For details, call 624-5912.

Tartuffe

Continuing a performance season populated by saints and sinners, the Staff Players Repertory Company presents Moliere's Tartuffe. Banned by royal decree from the French stage following its first performance, Moliere's 17th century farce punctures religious hypocrisy.

Marcia Gambrell Hovick directs Tartuffe. The cast includes Norman Stottmeister in the title role, Jeff Heyer as the wealthy Orgon, Mariane Schaupp as his wife, Elmire, Elizabeth Klaas as the saucy Dorine, Henry Guevara as the hot-blooded Damis, Jason Bond as the calming Cleante, Jessica Stevenson and John Farmanesh as the star-crossed Mariane and Valere, Donelia Dooley as the imperious Madame Pernelle, and James Walters as the enigmatic Royal.

Tartuffe will play at Carmel's Indoor Forest Theater at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays until Feb. 17. The theater is located at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Admission is $9 general, $7 for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call 624-1531.

Anything Goes

The Stevenson Players present Anything Goes Thursday through Sunday, Feb. 1-4, on the campus of the Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach.

This classic Cole Porter musical takes place on the oceanliner "America" bound for England. Hamish Tyler directs the cast of passengers and sailors on this voyage. The score includes Friendship, I Get a Kick Out of You and Anything Goes.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for students. For more information or reservations, call 624-1257, ext. 338.

Little Murders

Sharp-tongued satire, absurdity and genuine human tragedy comprise the mixture served up by Little Murders. The Jules Feiffer play is an offering of the Monterey Peninsula College Players.

Conrad Selvig directs Little Murders, in which Carol and Marjorie Newquist (Michael Robbins and Nancy Kocher) are beset by some of New York's usual distractions — power failures, obscene phone calls and unexplained shots in the dark.

Final performances of Little Murders are set at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 1-3, at Cherry Hall. Cherry Hall is located at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea. For reservations, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

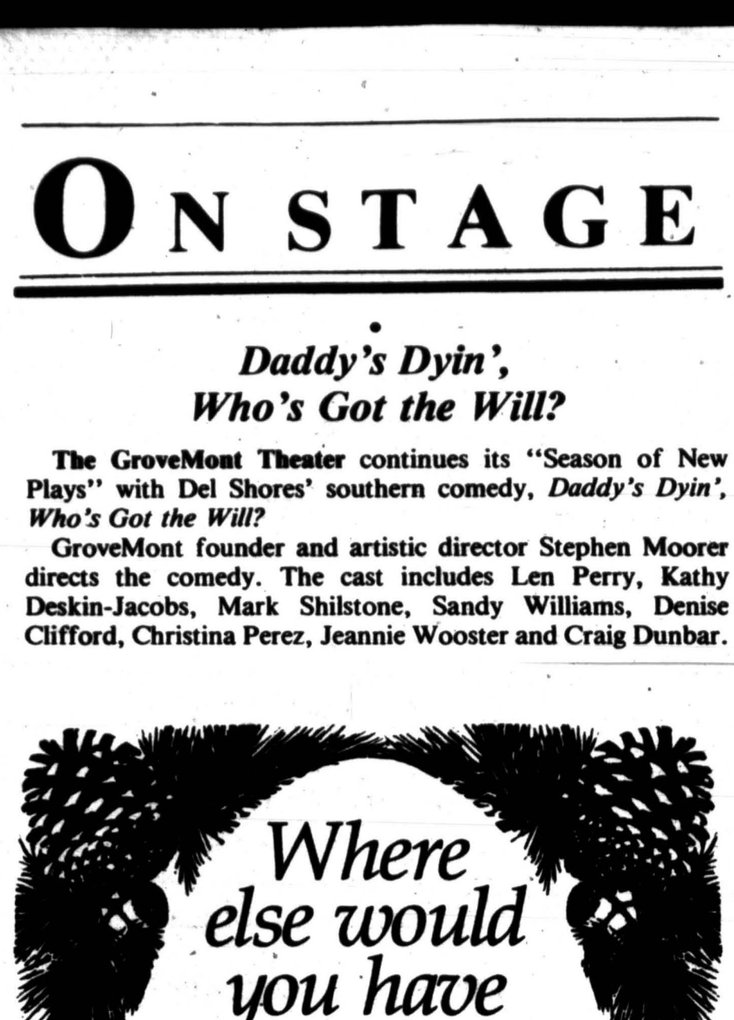
The Olio Revue

The traditional offering of 19th century song, dance and skits, The Olio Revue, continues at California's First Theatre.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.



MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin'

Thrilling pianist

SOVIET PIANIST Aleksei Sultanov, the 19-year-old Gold Medal winner of the recent Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, is still a student at the Moscow Conservatory and so, the number of concert appearances he is allowed to make each season is small. His recital for the Keyboard Artists Series Sunday afternoon in Carmel's Sunset Theater is one of the few he will make in the United States.

Well, I thought I knew what to expect from an advanced piano student, having been one myself many long years ago, but, in the course of a thrilling musical afternoon, I found out that here was an extraordinary musical talent. This slightly built teen-ager is a pianistic giant and all that he lacks at this stage in his development is some more mature musical guidance and the time to distill it into his already great musical and technical equipment.

His program opener, the Mozart "Sonata in C Major" K. 330, was musically sunny, smooth and gently elegant. He appeared to be playing for himself with unaffected pleasure and poise. The even-fingered fleetness of the closing Allegro was playfully brought out, yet he could also encompass emotive and songful passages just as nicely.

Without waiting out the applause, Sultanov launched into the Chopin "Sonata No. 3 in B Minor" op. 58, one of the great mainstays of the piano literature. The well proportioned opening movement combines drama and dexterity very effectively. The pianist played with an air of simplicity, conveying his musical truths and eschewed mannerisms and distortions. He is in total technical control and the flow of the music had a sparkling clarity.

The Scherzo goes from lightness and legato to introspection and drama. All were neatly accomplished. He also avoided histrionics in the Largo, conveying it reflectively and quietly. Sultanov traversed the enormous virtuoso pitfalls in the Finale with consummate ease, putting his emphasis on the musical values of the movement. Again there was that air of pleasure in his accomplishments. Nothing was a problem and playing with the fearlessness of youth, he brought the sonata to a powerful, well proportioned conclusion.

The second half of the program began with the Rachmaninoff "Etude-Tableau in E Flat Minor" Op. 39, No. 5. A large scale work, it began with high drama and went on with much emotional introspection. The colors are clamorous and the sound was muscular. The contrast to the soft passages, which kept their intensity, was very well made.

Sultanov's performance of the second of Prokofiev's three "War" sonatas, the "Sonata No. 7 in B Flat Major" was highly exciting. It began in high gear, full of strength and motion, again featuring strong contrasts of dynamics and mood. The second theme was quietly thoughtful and poetic, but then it began to build in relentless motion. The sound was cruel and brutal, yet it never descended to mere banging.

The interpretation of the Andante eluded the pianist though its markings were all clearly followed. The Finale was a real thriller with its ostinato rhythms propelling it along. Sultanov's power was always under rein, even as he created a huge, driving crescendo, with crystalline virtuosity, which culminated in a tremendous ending which brought a usually reserved audience to its feet cheering.

The "Mephisto Waltz" by Liszt was another keyboard blockbuster, performed at a breathtaking clip and incredible technical polish. Here one wished for less of that youthful impetuosity, even if once again, the superb and astonishingly well developed technique brought the audience to its feet.

Two encores by Chopin, the "Grande Valse Brillante" and the "Revolutionary Etude" were both performed at an unbelievably rapid clip and really, less would have been better, proving the need to encourage more musical maturity in this unusually accomplished young man.

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA
COUNTY OF MONTEREY
In the Matter of the Application of Sherry Steele Hayes, Petitioner, for Change of Name
Case No. M21674 order to show cause.

WHEREAS Sherry Steele Hayes, petitioner, has filed a petition with the clerk of this court for a decree changing petitioner's name from Sherry Steele Hayes to SARAH LIVINGSTON HAYES;

IT IS ORDERED that all persons interested in the above matter appear in department A of this court, located at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, California, on Feb. 9, 1990, at 9:30 A.M., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, and show cause, if any, why the petition for change of name should not be granted.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this order to show cause be published in Carmel Pine Cone, a newspaper of general circulation printed in Monterey County, California, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the date set for hearing on the petition.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:
CATHERINE BRADLEY QUINN, aka Catherine B. Quinn, aka C.B. Quinn
CASE NUMBER: MP 11198

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Catherine Bradley Quinn, aka Catherine B. Quinn, aka C.B. Quinn.

A PETITION has been filed by Daniel N. Cunningham & Avey Quinn Gibbs in the Superior Court of California, County of Monterey.

THE PETITION requests that Daniel N. Cunningham & Avey Quinn Gibbs be appointed as personal rpresentative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any , be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 9, 1990 at 9:30 AM located at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special notice of the filing of an inventory and apraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

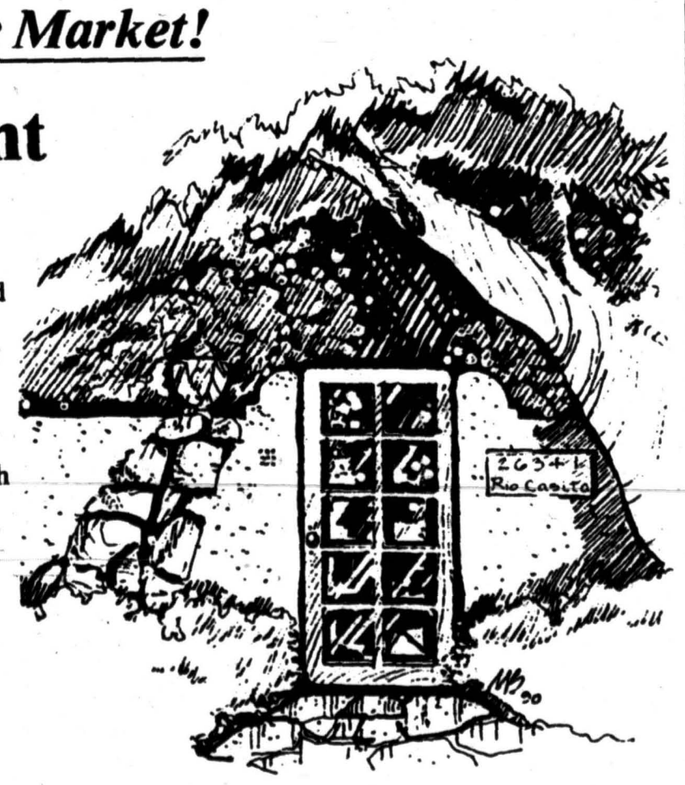
Carmel Point Home



Everything you've ever wanted in a Carmel Point home is reflected in "Rio Casita," beautifully designed by Michael Bolton and quality-remodeled by Brian Groza. On a quiet lane, steps from the beach, this romantic residence is secluded behind high plaster & stone walls and Carmel-stone courtyard. Stunningly remodeled to reflect its 75-year old history with modern day ambiance, you'll enjoy such features as the carriage room converted to the formal dining room, and the retaining of original paneled walls, the staircase, open-beam ceilings and wood-paned windows. The interior is light, open and charming with oversized French doors in every room leading to gardens or verandas overlooking views of the mountains & Bird Sanctuary. Outstanding features include 3 fireplaces, the family room opening to a gourmet-style kitchen with marble counters, maple cabinets & Carmel-stone walls, a formal step-down living room, 3 bedrooms & 2½ baths with marble floors & custom fixtures. The cream-colored walls & white ceilings blend with the natural-colored marble floors and wool carpeting. The exterior is enchanting with landscaped gardens, Carmel-stone accents, walkways & patios. And there are even antique carriage lamps to light your way home. $1,100,000.

STEPS TO BEACH!

Just listed! In prime area is "Rose Garden," a beautifully remodeled home with Carmelstone walkway & patio, flowering gardens, southern exposure & tranquil mountain views. Amenities are marvelous & feature shuttered windows & doors, hardwood oak floors & Berber carpeting, skylit gourmet kitchen with walnut cabinets & designer tile, a pantry with built-in wine storage wall, formal dining room, recessed lighting, open beams & fireplace in the garden-view living room. Four bedrooms & 3-1/2 baths including separate-entry guest quarters with vaulted ceiling & views. $895,000. 625-4111.

NEW ON THE MARKET!

"Petite Fleur" is the name of this charming home beautifully remodeled in an appealing Country French theme. There are lovely views from this light & airy "like new" 3-bedroom, 2-bath home. An exceptional kitchen has custom-tile work, cabinets and a bay window framing the colorful landscaping. A fireplace warms the living room with its open-beam ceiling. There are some hardwood floors & wall-to-wall carpeting. Lower level has separate-entry guest quarters with large bedroom, bath, laundry area & French doors opening to 1 of 2 decks. $429,000. 655-0300.

OCEAN VIEWS!

Just listed! A lovely large 4-bedroom, 3-1/2 bath home, remodeled in '86, featuring designer wallpaper, matching window coverings and light, bright rooms. Ideal for living & entertaining, the living room with fireplace is spacious, there is a formal dining room, a family room and nicely designed tile-accented kitchen with custom cabinets and breakfast area. Beautiful ocean views are seen from the living room, dining room, kitchen & large master suite with walk-in dressing room. $799,000. 655-0330.

IDYLLIC SETTING!

The words elegance and charm have been mentioned many times to describe a property, but these words take on new meaning when they are used to describe this wonderful home. The quiet forest setting belies its convenience to the center of town and the ambiance among the oaks is something which must be experienced. The basics are all here in the form of 4 bedrooms and 3 baths but it is the special things like the high-ceilinged skylit living room with its random-plank floors and the cozy library that are irreplaceable today. There are guest quarters, too. $995,000. 625-4111.

SEA-VIEW MEDITERRANEAN!

On an oversized double lot, a 6-bedroom, 5-bath home with lovely ocean views seen from the second story. This grand vacation home of the Zellerbach family, built in the 1920s, exhibits the quality & craftsmanship of that era. There are hardwood floors, tile accents, open-beamed ceilings & a fireplace in the large living room with built-in bookcases, dining area & French doors opening to an enclosed brick patio. Upstairs is the large master suite with balcony & a sun porch capturing sunset sea views. $1,985,000. 625-0300 or 625-4111.

MONTEREY

NEW ON THE MARKET!

Serenely set behind an ivy embankment on a wooded lot is this 4-bedroom, 3-bath family home. In a great neighborhood adjoining greenbelt with hiking trails, it is only one block to Via Paraiso City Park with its playground, ball field & tennis courts. Award-winning Monte Vista Elementary school, Walter Colton Junior High & Monterey High are within walking distance. The interior includes a brick fireplace warming the living room, country kitchen & separate level master suite. $349,500. 655-0300.

DESIRABLE ALTA MESA AREA!

This outstanding home offers approximately 4000 sq. ft. of privacy. A mirrored entry sets the sophisticated design of the living & dining rooms. Crown molding wraps these rooms & huge windows capture views of mature-oak treetops. A brass bar graces built-in cabinets with marble countertop & a floor-to-ceiling fireplace is exquisite. Although potential 5 bedrooms & 2-1/2 baths would easily accommodate a family, the flexible floor plan is ideal for those needing office space or guest quarters. $525,000. 625-4111.

OCEAN VIEWS!

On a prime 1/2 acre, a beautifully handcrafted, custom-built home on 3 levels with 5-bedrooms, 3 baths & 2 half-baths. No expense has been spared to create "Williamsburg in Monterey" with meticulous attention to detail, authentic Williamsburg appointments & decor. Fabulous ocean views & cityscape are seen from most rooms. There are beamed & crowned ceilings, French doors opening to 3 levels of tiled decking & handsome double offices with great built-ins. Outstanding features include 4 fireplaces, cherrywood paneled library, large family room, elegant formal living & dining rooms and cozy country-style kitchen. $895,000. 625-4111.

CARMEL VALLEY

MUST SEE 20-PLUS ACRE PROPERTY

A quality-built main house exudes charm and taste with its rock fireplace and floor-to-ceiling bookcases in the living room, country kitchen with dining area, 2 bedrooms & 2 baths. The nearby guest house is gorgeous. Offering great space and privacy with a serene atmosphere, there is plenty of room for a tennis court, pool, spa, gardens and barns. Lot of great possibilities in an area not yet discovered! Only 23 miles from Highway 1, just a short distance off Carmel Valley Road. $298,000. 625-0300.

RARE OPPORTUNITY!

Approximately 30 sunshine acres privately located near C.V. Village. This prime acreage, bordering the west boundary of Holman Ranch, consists of rolling pastures, stands of oak, and expansive views of hills, mountains and valley. Ticket information

A WIDE assortment of ticket choices are still available for the 1988 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, to be played Feb. 1-4, in Pebble Beach.

Ticket prices include: $20 each for one-day badges for all courses for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday's rounds; $75 for the Season Badge, which allows entrance all days on all courses; $90 for the Grounds and Grandstand Badge, which entitles the bearer to all Season Badge privileges, plus a grandstand seat at the 18th green at Pebble Beach.

Teen tickets are available for those 13-19 years of age for $10, good through Sunday, with children 12 and under free if accompanied by an adult.

Tickets are available at each of the four Pebble Beach gates or at BASS ticket outlets.

Celebrity amateurs and touring professionals will make up 180 teams which play Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point golf courses Thursday through Saturday, with the final round played Sunday on Pebble Beach.

The foursomes rotate to each of the three courses. Starting times are at 8 a.m. each day. Play concludes about 4 p.m. each day.

There is no charge for parking or for the courtesy bus transportation between courses. The Pebble Beach gate fee is waived for ticketholders.

For further information on tickets, please call: 541-9091.

Association opens up the world of golf to youngsters

By DAVID LELAND

WITH THE help of the AT&T Pebble Beach Junior Golf Association, children on the Monterey Peninsula are learning the fine art of mastering the difficult sport.

The non-profit organization has taken it upon itself to make golf affordable and available to youths from diverse economic backgrounds and locales.

'Our purpose is not to create a future Jack Nicklaus or Lee Trevino. But to introduce the game to as many kids as possible.'

— Clark Struve

"Our purpose is not to create a future Jack Nicklaus or Lee Trevino," explained Clark Struve, one of the organization's founders. "But to introduce the game to as many kids as possible."

He added that the group's clinics have included children from as far away as Watsonville and King City.

Founded late in 1988, the association is certainly making its name known on the peninsula. Thus far, 340 kids, ranging in age from 7 to 17, have taken part in the various activities.

Oh yes, one more thing should be known — all activities are free.

"We're trying to do everything we can to make it affordable and to allow them the opportunity to play," said Struve, adding that sports such as Little League baseball can get expensive. "Parents are overburdened."

The AT&T Pebble Beach Junior Golf Association is the brainchild of Struve, Tom Pelino, Dick Falge, Bob Zoller, Xavier Nady and Laird Small.

"There was no organization for junior golf on the Monterey Peninsula and there was a desperate need for it," said Struve, adding that an 18-member board of directors provides guidance for the association. "So we decided to do it."

Originally the effort was called the Monterey Peninsula Junior Golf Association. But shortly after being granted its tax-exempt status, the group was contacted by the AT&T Pebble Beach Golf Foundation, which handles charitable contributions for the tournament.

"They wanted to do something for junior golf," Struve said. "That was one of the loves that Bing Crosby (Pebble Beach Pro-Am founder), had. They saw in our program one of the things that they wanted to accomplish."

The foundation quickly donated $25,000 to the association to be used for operating expenses.

Prior to the AT&T's involvement, the association had garnered about $8,000 from community donations, an effort which will probably be unnecessary now.

"That's why we changed our name," Struve said. "They said 'we'd like you to be part of the AT&T Pro-Am operation.' We hope to get our future funding from the golf foundation."

BUT ENOUGH about finances — the program is working beyond anyone's wildest expectations. Plus, the association has received support from a myriad of sources.

Take, for example, the $3,500 worth of golf clubs donated by a woman recently widowed. That's not to mention donations from major suppliers such as Spaulding.

"If kids need clubs we can put them in their hands," Struve said.

Old Del Monte Golf Course allows children to play for free after 4 p.m. and Rancho Canada charges only $3, rather than the typical $15 green fees.

Pros also donate their time, such as at the annual AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am Gatorade Clinic, which takes place the day before tourney play begins.

Last year PGA pros and past AT&T winners Fuzzy Zoeller and Steve Jones were on hand. This year saw the talent of defending champion Mark O'Meara demonstrating his technique to the youngsters.

THE MITCHELL GROUP

Association offers golf to kids

The association offers a summer series of classes at local golf courses, which last year saw competition between 115 junior golfers from peewees to adolescents.

Last December the group held the Holiday Happening at The Golf Club at Quail Lodge. Youths competed in the areas of iron shots, pitching and putting.

For that tournament the Clubworks in Marina cut down 75 of the 400 donated clubs to fit the youngsters.

Perhaps the most welcome news this year came with the establishment of the $4,000 Jim Langley Scholarship Fund.

"I tried to get them to name the scholarship after someone else," said a modest Langley. "But I like working with kids, it's always rewarding."

The first recipient, who will receive help with his college expenses, was Miguel Parra, a senior at Monterey High School. Fifteen other recipients were given grants for one-on-one lessons.

"We arranged with 15 different Class A professionals," Struve said. "Only three of them billed."

Struve is a firm believer in golf's ability to create well-rounded human beings.

'There was no organization for junior golf on the Monterey Peninsula and there was a desperate need for it. So we decided to do it.'

Golf provides so many unique qualities," said Struve, referring to traits such as patience, manners and coordination. "It does so more than any other team sport."

In 1892, New York became the first state in the nation to authorize voting machines.

Tournament's growth reflected in increasing revenues to charities

By DAVID LELAND

JUST AS the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am has grown in size since the event became a part of the corporate world, the amount of money donated to local charities has soared.

It became a tradition with tournament founder Bing Crosby to donate proceeds from the event to charity, but it is only the past five years that charitable donations have become big business.

"The old tournament was a little happening once a year," said Lou Russo, the tourney's executive director. "The big thing about the AT&T is that it's becoming more rewarding to charities."

Indeed, last year $900,000 was raised for charities. Over the four decades of the tournment, $9.5 million has gone to charitable causes.

Records indicate that corporate sponsorship has been a blessing to needy organizations.

Up until 1985 when AT&T became involved, the largest donation had stood at $500,000, since that time each year has garnered close to $1 million earmarked for charity, according to Russo.

"The bottom line is how much more you have contributed to charity," Russo said. "That's where the satisfaction comes in."

Russo added that many times the Crosby would only take in $50,000 toward charity.

With the exception of Russo, and two staffers at the AT&T offices in Monterey, all work is donated. More than 900 volunteers from worldwide travel to the peninsula to take part in the cause.

After the tournament has been completed, the money is put in a trust fund and is then slated for distribution by the Monterey Peninsula Golf Foundation.

'The bottom line is how much more you have contributed to charity. That's where the satisfaction comes in.'

— Lou Russo

The 10-member foundation is composed of William Borland, chairman, Peter Coniglio, Harry Crosby, Nathaniel Crosby, Clint Eastwood, Darius Keaton, J.B. McIntosh, Tom Oliver, John Smart and John Zoller.

Up until several years ago the foundation was a contractual body. In other words, there was little decision making regarding the direction of charitable contributions.

But as the earnings of the tournament grew, so grew the responsibilities of the foundation.

"The foundation now takes an important part in running the tournament," said Russo.

Under the previous arrangement, the foundation had been run by Dan Searl, who was its only chairman for 35 years. But as the task became larger an executive director was named and more board members added.

THE FIRST donation the foundation makes each year is to the National Pro-Am Youth Fund, a group of community leaders which meet regularly throughout the year to consider applications.

The organization researches charitable causes and distributes the money accordingly.

Among past recipients are Women's Crisis Center in Salinas; Meals on Wheels; YMCA; Child Advocates of California; Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula; Crisis Pregnancy Center; Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula; Planned Parenthood and Museum of Modern Art.

The youth fund also gives student grants in all 50 states.

Distribution of the remaining funds is the subject of monthly meetings by the foundation throughout the year.

"You look at the revenue and see who has a need," Russo said. "There's no real criteria."

Local artist going on his sixth decade of sketching tournament

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL ARTIST Sam Colburn's hands will do the walking during this year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, just as they have since the late 1940s.

If you need him, just look for the weathered artist at the 9th hole at Cypress Point — there, Colburn sketches his views of the tournament.

'I just look for some character. I also look for somebody who stays still for more than 30 seconds.'

"I just look for some character," says Colburn, 80, a member of the Carmel Art Society since 1940. "I also look for somebody who stays still for more than 30 seconds."

Each day of the tournament, Colburn sets himself up on a sand dune overlooking the hole. His equipment includes two pencils and a sketch pad.

"I've got to get in the position that I can see without being obstructed by spectators," he says.

Colburn, who was born in Denver, Colo. in 1910, moved to Los Angeles when he was 9. He graduated from the University of Southern California in 1932, with a degree in geology.

He moved to Carmel in 1937 and has won a number of prizes for his watercolors in local competition.

Needless to say, Colburn has quite a stack of sketches from his years of drawing golfers, caddies and spectators. It takes him a mere 60 seconds to produce one of his gems.

Sometimes he adds a touch of India ink to the drawings once he returns home. "Occasionally I sell one," he adds.

To be sure, Colburn knows what to look for on the links. In addition to being a well-known artist, he has been playing golf since he was 17.

He can often be seen playing the municipal golf course in Pacific Grove. He is less sure of his handicap than of his ability to sketch the action at the AT&T.

"I don't have a handicap," he says. "It'd be pretty high if I had any."

PERENNIAL ENTRANT in the AT&T/Crosby, Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood is one of the most popular players at the annual event, which he has competed in since 1963.

'Cowboy' Clint now a perennial

By DAVID LELAND

CLINT EASTWOOD remembers his introduction to the Crosby — now the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am — in 1963 as if it were yesterday.

"I was on a TV show panel talking about golf at KSBW and a fella asked me how come I wasn't in the Crosby," explains Eastwood, who will be taking part in his 26th tournament this year. "I said as a joke, 'I guess they don't like cowboys.' "

In those days Eastwood had yet to make his first movie, instead the young actor entertained television audiences weekly on the hit Western series Rawhide.

One of the participants on that panel was Larry Crosby, Bing's brother, who next year sent Eastwood an invitation to take part in the prestigious three-day tournament — scrawled at the bottom of the invite, in pen, was a postscript which read: "We do like cowboys."

Prior to that time, Eastwood said he had met and was a neighbor of Bing Crosby but "I never pushed him" regarding playing in his tournament.

In fact, Eastwood said he had met Bing's wife, Kathyrn, when the two were only 18 years old in Hollywood. At that time she was a contract player for Universal Studios and he the same for Columbia Motion Pictures.

Currently Eastwood, 58, plays golf at least once a week to stay in shape for the AT&T, although he likes to get on the links more when possible and can be seen on local courses in Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach year-round.

"I haven't had as much time in the past year because of mayoral stuff," says the Carmel mayor.

Eastwood, who now has a respectable handicap of 15, says it has only been in recent years that he has truly begun to enjoy the sport which he first took up while stationed at Fort Ord during the early '50s, when he and his friends played once every six months.

"We couldn't afford to play at Pebble Beach in those days, so we played at a nine-hole course in Pacific Grove," reminisces the winner of the Golden Globe's Cecil B. DeMille award, given to him last month. "We were shooting balls into the neighborhood — the neighbors were irate."

But Eastwood found that he tried too hard at golf and wasn't having much fun, so he stopped playing for a time.

"I had off for quite a while," he explains, "and when I came back I found that I didn't take it as seriously as when I was stationed at Fort Ord."

NOW EASTWOOD seems to have a healthy respect for the activity.

"It's a tough sport," he says. "It's mind over matter; you're competing with yourself."

He adds that playing in the AT&T with pros like longtime partner Ray Floyd has definitely improved his game.

"Whenever you're playing with heavyweights it helps with your game," he says.

But whether you're competing against yourself or others, the hardest part of the AT&T, says Eastwood, is teeing off

Press room crew in charge of media care and feeding

By RAY MARCH

IT IS by no mere chance that the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am golf championship is a nationwide household word.

When there are 100 writers and photographers from newspapers and magazines, another 33 radio station and 23 television sportscasters covering the tournament — the word is bound to get out.

Those figures don't include prime time television coverage which, more than words can convey, brings home the splendor of Del Monte Forest as well as the golfing action.

Press coverage last year went around the world as golf writers and photographers converged on Pebble Beach from Japan, England, Australia, Austria and France, plus the major wire services, metropolitan newspapers and national magazines of the U.S.

A sampling of the press attendance included USA Today, ESPN, Entertainment Tonight, radio and television affiliates of CBS, NBC, and ABC, Sports Illustrated, Time, Photo Reporter of France and Golf Illustrated of London.

Closer to home local newspapers, including the Carmel Pine Cone, magazines, radio and television stations sent their reporters to sit side by side with the world press to cover in incredible detail the score-by-score excitement of the tournament. Millions of words were written and spoken, not just about the tournament players and the galleries, but also about the three courses — Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point.

Getting the word out from this year's National Pro-Am — in the form of your newspaper, weekly magazine or nightly newscast — does not come about by happenstance. There is a logistically complex phenomenon of scoreboards, telephones, computers, typewriters, paper and pens that when put together, is called the "press room."

It's from the press room that the tournament is reported, and sometimes recreated for the world at large. This is where tournament leaders and other name pros are interviewed by the press corps. This is where a golfer's round is played once again — hole by hole, stroke by stroke — for the golf writers. And this is where the stories you read and hear are written.

It's a smooth operation, run by the manager of special events for the Pebble Beach Co., along with an assistant and a staff of volunteers. The tournament office manager is responsible for advance ticket sales, volunteer contacts, billings and general administration of the tournament office throughout the year. At the tournament they are all part of this typical day:

Registering players, registering press members, directing people, answering questions, answering telephones that never stop ringing all day, giving out the latest score, keeping callers up to date on tournament status, running down answers to obscure questions from the press and answering more phones.

The facilities and services provided by the Pebble Beach Co. are rated the best on the PGA Tour by veteran golf writers. Basically, everything is provided including daily silver service breakfast rolls, croissants and coffee and a white tablecloth sit-down buffet lunch prepared and served by The Lodge.

To get the press room off to a smooth start each golf writer is issued a press kit that contains the tournament program, a Pebble Beach spots calendar for the year, a map showing one-way traffic flow and parking, detailed facts on Pebble, Spyglass and Cypress Point golf courses, telephone numbers for the press room, scores and tournament headquarters and rules governing access to the coveted buffet (working press only).

Writers searching for personalized vignettes about past National Pro-Am tournaments are sent to Ted Durein of Carmel, press director and human storehouse of endless stories on the history and humor of the classic event. It is Durein, in his capacity as sports editor of the Monterey Herald back in 1947, who is credited with encouraging the establishment of the tournament at Pebble Beach.

Details on PGA players such as yearly winnings and personal background are provided by a PGA press representative.

While most of the writers use the latest in modern devices for sending out their stories such as Telegram Portabubbles with screen and Radio Shack TRS-80 portables, others rely on Olympia upright typewriters or Smith-Corona portables.

Scores are kept on a large board running the length of the press room. The scoreboard lists all players in alphabetical order. The courses are color coded to identify which course the player has completed.

Many writers base their stories on quotes and information they glean at periodic interviews with the leaders. The interviews, arranged and conducted by PGA officials, are where the details of the round are discussed. Because the press can't follow every player all the time, the players recount their play during the interview.

In the early days of the tournament the interviews were conducted formally. The day's leader sat in an overstuffed chair on a raised platform and the writers crowded around and bombarded him with questions. Today the interview room looks like a television set for the evening newscast. On a stage in front of the seated reporters are two casual chairs and an end table. The background is dark blue panelling with a full-color AT&T Pebble Beach logo in the center. Players use a public address system so everyone can hear them.

As the day's play comes to a close, the hardcore writers sit down to their computers or traditional typewriters, usually about 5:30 p.m. and pound out their stories for the next morning's newspapers.

And that's "30".

The month of April comes from aperire, Latin for "to open" as do buds that month.

AT&T first-timers taking it all in a (nervous) stride

By DAVID LELAND

OAKLAND A's slugging star Mark McGwire is said to shudder at the thought of teeing off on the first hole at Pebble Beach before a gallery of spectators — this comes from a sports star who is used to performing before thousands of adoring fans.

Imagine, if you will, what the experience must be like for a mere mortal

'This is really a frustrated golfer's absolute picnic. This is the pinnacle to be able to play in this tournament.'

— Dan Tibbets

who is taking part in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am for the first time.

"I'm panicked," says Dan Tibbits, a part-time account executive with the Monterey office of Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., who this weekend is fulfilling a lifelong dream. "I'm nervous. I think anybody who has a handicap like myself (13) is trying to keep from embarrassing himself. I think about it (the first hole) in the middle of the night many times."

Tibbits is not alone with his thoughts.

"I'll be nervous on the first tee," remarks Michael Barker, manager of Kidder Peabody & Co. Inc. in Carmel Valley, who is also making his first appearance in the tourney. "Hopefully I'll settle down a bit by the second or third hole. There's going to be a lot of friends out there, I don't want to disappoint them."

One thing is certain: all the lessons and practice matches played during the year won't replace that lonely feeling of being in the spotlight.

On further examination it seems like a small price to pay for such an honor and opportunity.

This year Tibbits and Barker will join several other peninsula residents playing in the prestigious tournament.

The elite list includes Clay Larson, Leo Futch, Dr. Jim Rhiem (see related story in this issue), Paul Verga, and Casey Boyns, the state amateur champ from Pacific Grove.

Both Tibbits and Barker served as alternates last year — the closest thing to actually getting to take part in play.

They have each been on pins and needles since receiving their invitiations to play in the AT&T last September.

"This is really a frustrated golfer's absolute picnic," says Tibbits, who works part time raising funds for Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula's new facility. "This is the pinnacle to be able to play in this tournament."

Tibbits served as a marshall for the Crosby beginning in 1962 and also spent 10 years as a spotter for television announcers.

"I've always been close to the Crosby and AT&T," says Tibbits, who is a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club in Pebble Beach.

BARKER ALSO worked as a spotter for television with the AT&T before being elevated to the status of player.

He is unsure how useful his respectable handicap of 6.1 will be.

"Those courses are so tough, I'll need more strokes than that," says Barker, also a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, where he plays golf regularly with Tibbits.

Tibbits is realistic about his future with the tournament.

"To play it once is really the key," he says. "I would love to have a lower handicap, but some people have the ability and some don't."

But unlike Tibbits, who began the sport as an adult, Barker picked up a club while still in elementary school.

"I've played golf for 40 of my 49 years; golf is one of my first loves," says Barker, who has lived on the peninsula since 1961. "I've always hoped that I would have a chance to play in the AT&T."

Barker has become somewhat creative when it comes to selecting his caddy — he has chosen three friends — Doug Dusenberg, Chuck Pius and Michael West — for the honors.

"I don't think it's unusual for amateurs to have friends caddy," he says, adding that the job description for a professional varies from an amateur. "Pros want to win and want to know the exact type of club to use and (the amount of) yardage."

Should he enter the final round on Sunday, Barker will have a bevy of potential caddies to choose from.

"I've had lots of offers from people to caddy on Sunday," he says. "Obviously I have to make the cut."

For Tibbits, selecting a caddy was simple. He merely called his son Geoff at the University of Idaho, who will fly in for the honors.

His wife Vonda will be on the sidelines cheering him on, while daughter Kristen has been commissioned to put together a scrapbook of the entire event.

While Barker too will be supported by wife Carol and daughters Lisa and Kristin, he has shares no illusions about where their interests really lie.

'I've played golf for 40 of my 49 years; golf is one of my first loves. I've always hoped that I would have a chance to play in the AT&T.'

— Michael Barker

"They'll probably watch me for two holes and get bored," he says. "Then they'll go watch Jack Lemmon and Clint Eastwood."

Both Tibbets or Barker are trying to keep the AT&T in the proper perspective.

"I just want to enjoy the tournament to its fullest," says Barker. "I think it's easy to get too serious. I want to be as relaxed as I can and have a good experience."

Tibbits is also attempting to take somewhat of a cavalier attitude.

"I'll have some great memories from it unless I play terribly," he says. "I just want to play really well and have fun."

AT&T

Will third time be a charm for two-time AT&T winner O'Meara?

IT CAME down to a putt. Tom Kite had already missed an 18-foot putt for birdie on the 18th at Pebble, after four days of golf in the 1989 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

Now it was Mark O'Meara's turn. It was time to size-up a 10-foot putt using every ounce of golf experience he had. He pulled back, swung, and sunk the "putt heard 'round the peninsula" to claim the AT&T Pebble Beach top prize of $180,000 with an 11-under 277. It was the second time in five years that O'Meara had emerged on top at the tournament at Pebble Beach.

O'Meara will be back at Pebble Beach to defend his title when formal play begins Feb. 1. He will be competing with the best on the PGA Tour for the top prize of $180,000, part of the total purse of $1,070,000.

His win at Pebble helped contribute to O'Meara's most profitable season on the PGA Tour in 1989, when he won $615,804.

O'Meara, who also won several foreign events, including the 1986 Australian Masters, finished second to Tom Watson on the 1984 money list, with a total of 15 top-10 finishes.

Other wins during his career have included the Hawaiian Open and Isuzu Kapalua International, both in 1985, and the Greater Milwaukee Open, his first PGA Tour victory in 1984.

O'Meara started playing golf when he was 13 after his family moved next door to a golf course in Mission Viejo. Not knowing many of the neighborhood kids in his new community, young Mark would slip onto the course and play a few holes.

Later, O'Meara made the golf team as a freshman at Mission Viejo High School, and helped the team win the state championship in his junior year. He later earned a college scholarship to California State University at Long Beach.

O'Meara's first break nationally came in 1979, when he won the United States Amateur at Canterbury in Cleveland, Ohio.

He currently lives in Escondido, with his wife and two children.

CYPRESS POINT pro Jim Langley has managed to perfect a one-handed golf swing, despite injuries suffered in a car accident.

AT&T

Outlook keeps getting brighter for Cypress Point pro Langley

By DAVID LELAND

SOMEHOW VETERAN pro golfer Jim Langley manages to remain optimistic in the course of adversity. As a result, his life just keeps getting better and better.

Oh yes, he's taken up golf again. Not bad for a man, who just three years ago, almost lost his life during a car accident.

"All things considered there's been a lot of improvement since the accident," says the soft-spoken Cypress Point golf pro. "It's been a real growth process."

The accident occured while Langley and Monterey Golf Foundation President Bill Borland moved their car to the side of a roadway after experiencing mechanical difficulties.

Because of poor visual conditions, a speeding auto crashed into the car from behind where Langley was pushing — he was thrown 50 feet into the bushes alongside the road. It took rescuers 10 minutes just to find him.

The result for Langley: three broken ribs, a compound fracture of the left leg, a right leg broken in five places, fractured clavicle, paralyzed right arm and broken scapula. Borland suffered a broken leg in the mishap.

Langley, 51, has not spent any time feeling sorry for himself, but has thrown himself into the task of recovery.

"We know life is a privilege, we don't need to take it for granted," says Langley, who utilizes the talents of physical therapists Philo Short and Jack Feather.

A turning point for Langley came with the healing of his legs, his right leg still shows a 2-foot-long scar running over his calf.

Because of nerve damage to his shoulder and neck area, Langley's right arm has not regained feeling.

'All things considered there's been a lot of improvement since the accident. It's been a real growth process.'

"The way it functions is like a nice paperweight," says Langley, of his arm that most often hangs idly at his side.

But revolutionary surgery performed at Tulane University in New Orleans is beginning to reap results.

Feeling in the arm is progressing at a rate of one centimeter a month and is now down to his bicep. Langley had 12 inches of nerves transplanted from his leg to his shoulder area during the surgery.

He added that total feeling should return to the arm in about five years.

DURING THE past three years since his accident, Langley has discovered that the mind can overcome serious physical difficulties.

His expertise — before his mishap Langley had played in the Crosby and AT&T tournaments 16 times — is still in demand at Cypress Point, where he gives up to eight lessons a day.

'I was kind of curious to see if I could do it; it's kind of fun. Playing two-handed or one-handed, it's still the same feeling for the game that I love.'

As can be imagined, Langley is unable to grip a golf club in the traditional manner. Never fear, where there is a will there is a way.

Would you believe he is hitting a 93, while playing the tough links at Cypress Point with one hand?

"I was kind of curious to see if I could do it; it's kind of fun," says Langley from the pro shop at Cypress Point where he maintains a small office. "Playing two-handed or one-handed, it's still the same feeling for the game that I love."

Langley still possesses professional form when driving with one hand on the club. With help of friend and Chicago-based club manufacturer Hubby Habjam, who designed him a club with one handgrip, Langley can drive the ball 180 yards.

One gets the impression, however, that Langley operates from a higher plane than others. In other words, even if he wasn't fortunate enough to be playing golf, he would still be happy.

"I'm just fortunate to be here," says Langley, who also jogs and bicycles for exercise. "Life is virtually normal, except for having an arm that's not 100 percent yet."

Rheim just happy to be playing in 'hometown' tourney

By DAVID LELAND

AS THE eyes of the international golf world focused in on the fairway leading to the 18th hole at Pebble Beach during last year's AT&T tournament, an odd sight could be seen.

With the manicured lawn and Pacific Ocean providing a picturesque background, Dr. Jim Rheim and caddie Tom Hornaday could be seen standing on the fairway laughing as if there were no tomorrow.

'I attribute my winning ability to psychologically having him there to discuss the aesthetics of the event rather than the outcome. It was interesting to discuss that rather than that I had to birdie the hole. It took the pressure away.'

Mind you, Rheim, a Monterey dermatologist, needed to birdie the hole in order to beat out the pro-am team of Dan Pohl and Dan Marino. That same team had beaten him and his partner, Steve Jones, the year before. Ironically, that time Rheim also needed to birdie the 18th hole.

As Rheim and Hornaday shared a moment of levity, Jones stood close by and anxiously watched the proceedings.

It seems that Hornaday and Rheim were recalling old times. The duo grew up together in Chula Vista in Southern California, attended the same high school and acted as best man at each other's wedding.

Rheim said that conversation revolved around the improbability of their lives leading up to such an exciting point as playing in the AT&T.

"I attribute my winning ability to psychologically having him there to discuss the aesthetics of the event rather than the outcome," said Rheim, 47. "It was interesting to discuss that rather than that I had to birdie the hole. It took the pressure away."

For those who missed the exciting climax of last year's AT&T, Rheim made the shot, a 120-yarder with his 4-iron, which landed 10 feet from the pin.

Unlike the preceding year, he sank the 10-foot putt. "It's the only hole I can remember playing that I shot perfectly," says Rheim, who can be seen playing this year with Jones for the third year in a row.

With 180 teams competing in this year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, Rheim knows that the odds do not favor a repeat performance.

"This year I'd say we have 180th of a chance," he said.

Not to worry; he still has memories of last year's victory.

"I couldn't believe it happened," said Rheim, who plays with a respectable 4 handicap. "Everyone who's played a lot of golf can imagine what it would be like to have to birdie a hole in front of a nationally televised tournament."

Rheim also has a trophy case containing various pieces of Waterford Crystal, which was awarded him after his victory.

Much to his disappointment, four glasses broke during last year's earthquake — he has put stickum on the bottom of the remainder of the pieces, just in case.

SHORTLY AFTER birding the 18th hole at Pebble Beach, Rheim was all smiles. And why not? He and partner Steve Jones had just won the pro-am.

A MEMBER of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Rheim brings to the AT&T many years of tournament experience, having begun playing golf at the ripe age of 9.

studies at Stanford University, he was named All-American in golf. It was during that period when, as a preview of things to come, Rheim entered in the state amateur competition, which took place at Pebble Beach.

That was during the mid-1960s — he quit playing golf while he attended medical school at Tulane and took his residency at the University of Michigan.

'Everyone who's played a lot of golf can imagine what it would be like to have to birdie a hole in front of a nationally televised tournament.'

Shortly after moving to the peninsula in 1977, however, he decided to take up the sport again. And what better way than to enter the prestigious U.S. Open.

"I tied for last — it was my first tournament since 1969," said Rheim, adding that some of the greatest players in the world took part in the tourney. "It was quite an experience; I didn't feel too bad about finishing last."

But Rheim's golfing plans were cut short in 1981, when he was hit by a car while jogging. It took him five years to recover sufficiently enough to get back on the links.

He now plays two times a month, except when he is preparing for the AT&T — then it's every chance he gets.

"It's a great pleasure to play in the tournament," he said. "But it's a surprise to end up doing well."

With a humble attitude like Rheim's, how can you help but be a winner?

Longtime volunteer becomes tourney's first full-time director

By DAVID LELAND

CORPORATE SPONSORSHIP brings with it a myriad of responsibilities — just ask AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am Executive Director Lou Russo.

This year Russo became the tourney's first paid executive director. Fair is fair.

"Basically it has become a year-round thing," say Russo, who has served on a volunteer basis for the past five years. "I spend 90 percent of my time here; its grown into a big operation."

The AT&T tournament offices, located in downtown Monterey, can hardly handle the voluminous amount of people, telephone calls and boxes stacked in the hallways.

Russo, who oversees direction of the frenetic pace of the entire tournament, admits that the Professional Golfers' Association applied some pressure for the AT&T to hire a director. It seems that the majority of tournaments on the tour have full-time direction.

Russo sold one of his two carpet business and devotes the majority of his time to the tournament.

He describes his salary as "nominal — not that great."

"I'd love to do it on a volunteer basis, but I spend all my time here now," he explains. "Basically nothing has changed; I'm doing the exact same thing as I was before."

Times have changed since the calm, intimate days when crooner Bing Crosby served as the event's figurehead.

When Crosby headed up the annual event, it was basically a time for pals to get together and rekindle old friendships, play tournament-style golf and party until the wee hours of the morning.

Indeed, ask players who participated in the tournament during the '40s, '50s and 60s and your likely to hear more about dining and dancing than golf.

"Every night was New Year's Eve during the Crosby," says Johnny Lamb, who broadcast the event for 26 years on radio. "It ain't like it used to be."

And, of course, the stakes weren't as high.

When the tourney first began, the winners' purse was about $100,000. This year will be in the neighborhood of $1 million — the winner alone will reap $180,000.

"In the old days the professionals and amateurs would party together," says Lamb. "People would take a week off of work to sell tickets, marshall and sell programs."

Now the tournament is fun, but it's definitely business.

"With corporate involvement it becomes a little more critical," says Russo. "It's become a large operation, more people want to become involved in it."

'Basically it has become a year-round thing. I spend 90 percent of my time here; its grown into a big operation.'
— Lou Russo

The Monterey Peninsula Golf Foundation, which directs the tournmanent, is well aware that the peninsula can only accommodate so many people.

Each year, many hours are spent with police agencies in order to ensure motorists taking part in the festivities and residents a smooth ride.

Russo says the AT&T may have reached its limit.

"I don't think it will get smaller," he says. "But we realize that there is a maximum amount of people you can bring in — we're probably capped out."

AT&T courtesy

A CLICK of a camera or a fan's barely audible whispered comment to a friend could cost a golfer thousands of dollars.

Because golf is a game of concentration, any distraction could cause the player to mis-stroke. One lost swing could mean the difference between the crown and second place.

AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am officials are especially wary of golf courtesy because the average spectator is usually not accustomed to the game.

To help the players, tournament marshals ask spectators to follow a few simple rules of courtesy:

- An admission ticket or official badge must be worn where it can be easily visible.
- Always stay behind the ropes and obey the requests of tournament marshals.
- Keep off the fairways, greens and sand traps when walking from hole to hole.
- As tempting as it may be, please do not ask for autographs during play. Wait until after the player has putted out on the 18th and signed his scorecard.
- Do not "help" a golfer if his ball drops out of bounds at your feet. Never touch the ball. The player will hit it from the lie or take a penalty stroke.
- Never take photos of a player in the midst of a swing or putt. Take the picture as the shot is being lined up or just after the golfer has hit the ball.
- Never talk when a player is swinging. Save comments and applause for after the shot.

SAY BUDDY, can you tell me whether I'm "up" or "down?" AT&T regulars Jack Lemmon and Glen Campbell are well versed in the terminology of golf, although they'd probably like to refrain from using words like "shank" and "double bogey."

Terms of Endearment

THE MAJORITY of AT&T fans are not hard-core golf lovers. Many of the spectators come out to see the stars instead of aces, putts and birdies.

If you are one of the star-watching, autograph-seeking spectators, here are some of the common terms used in golf:

- ACE: a hole in one.
- AWAY: the ball farthest from the hole, which will be the next to be played.
- BEST-BALL: commonly used for a four-ball match, when two partners use only the better of their scores on each hole.
- BIRDIE: one stroke under par for a hole.
- BLAST: to explode a shot out of a sand trap.
- BUNKER: a sand trap, a depression forming a hazard for the player.
- DIVOT: clump of sod cut away by a golf club.
- DOWN: the number of holes a player or partners are behind their opponent. The opposite is "up," or holes ahead.
- EAGLE: two strokes under par.
- FORE: a warning cry to any who might be in range of a ball being played.
- GROSS SCORE: score before handicap is deducted.
- HOLE OUT: finish putting.
- HONOR: the privilege of playing first which goes to the low scorer on the preceding hole.
- LIE: the position of the golf ball on the ground.
- LIP: the edge of the cup on the green into which the ball must be stroked.
- MEDAL PLAY: also called stroke play, a competition in which the score is calculated by counting the total number of strokes.
- NET: score after deducting handicap.
- SCRATCH PLAYERS: golfer with a zero handicap.

BING CROSBY'S name may no longer be attached to the golf tournament he started in 1937, but his spirit lives on in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, which is now being run by two of his sons, Nathaniel and Harry. (Bing is shown here with golfing great Ben Hogan in the 1949 tournament)
